Pymatuning Dam Measure Is Before Senate For Action

Committee Reports Bill To Senate And It Passes First Reading

EXPECT FINAL ACTION ON NEXT TUESDAY

Should Reach Governor Pinchot Sometime During Coming Week

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 22.—Final passage of the Pymatuning Dam bill, which will provide a million and a half dollars for completion of the project, is expected to to be made by the Senate next Tuesday.

The bill entered its last stage prior to passage today, when the measure was reported out of the Senate appropriation committee and passed first reading. With no delays it should pass finally on next Tuesday and will then go to Governor Pinchot for his signature.

Provides Funds

The bill reported out today is the Stevenson measure, which provides for an immediate start on the project as soon as the bill becomes a law.

The House took favorable action on the proposition several weeks ago, putting the measure through without delay. Since that date it has been in the hands of the Senate appropriation committee, who took action on the matter today.

It is expected that the work of constructing the dam, clearing away the brush and trees from the acreage which will be covered and other work on the dam will take months to complete.

If the million and a half dollars appropriated under the bill is not sufficient to complete the project, the Department of Forests and Waters is authorized to advance sufficient funds to finish the dam.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Tuesday afternoon's sun proved too tempting to some of the city's adult mushball teams and as a result they were out at different fields going through the limbering-up process. Pa Newc saw a team at Colonial field staging its first workout of the season.

Oil City will be the destination for the county and city's student musicians on Friday. A special train has been chartered by the county schools for the sectional meet, and part of the city's own players will go on it. The majority of the senior high musicians will make the trip by automobile.

This checking job of P. F. Stevenson, foreman of the city letter carriers, is an interesting one. Data on every city route is ascertained and then sent into Washington, D. C. Twice a year he spends an entire day on every mail run.

The downtown fire on Tuesday evening once again emphasized the handicap of alley parking. Many of the alleys downtown were partially blocked with parked autos.

Base ball enthusiasts who went to Pittsburgh for the opening of the national league season at Forbes Field today were probably badly disappointed. During the morning rain fell in this city and reports from Pittsburgh were that weather conditions did not look promising.

One of the prettiest pictures Pa Newc has seen this spring is the scene presented at the corner of Garfield and Carlisle street. Two

DOWNTOWN TAILOR SHOP BLAZE DAMAGE IS $800

Firemen quickly checked a blaze in a North Mercer street tailor shop shortly before 8 p. m. Tuesday after flames had eaten their way through a wall partition and headed from the ceiling to the second floor.

Fire authorities estimated damage of $800 was sustained in the fire which originated in a partition in a rear room of the Fashion Tailors & Cleaners, 15 North Mercer street, while the proprietor, Habib Hage, was absent.

Most of the building, a two-story brick, owned by the Clendenin heirs, was filled with smoke when L. A. Bratschie, employed across the street, telephoned the fire department.

While the fire was progressing in the shop downstairs, unknown to her, Miss E. Blanche Robinson was alone in a room of her apartment on the second floor. Smoke filled the room which was located over the tailor shop. Although contents of the apartment were in no danger after firemen arrived, Miss Robinson removed clothing and valuables from the room.

Firemen, who have not decided on the cause of the fire, believe it continued from the participation to the second floor where it burned under the floor of the bath room.

Two lines consisting of nearly 800 feet of hose were laid and the fire was soon out.

Chorus Girl In New York Kills Self By Plunge

Lillian Page Greer, 27, Hurls Self From 22nd Story Of Hotel

POLICE PROBING TRAGIC SUICIDE

Had Expected Money From Chicago, Presumably From Her Husband

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 22—"Money will be sent Monday or Tuesday." That was the telegram from Chicago.

Monday and Tuesday dragged by, and early today the slim form of a beautiful Broadway showgirl hurtled from the 22nd story of the Hotel Victoria. The lifeless figure of Lillian Page Greer, known on the stage as Lillian Page, was found on the third story mezzanine.

Miss Page, who last appeared in a road company of a hit show, left her room in the hotel about 7 o'clock last night with two other girls Mumbe Metcalf and Dorothy Lamb, and also Jack Horowitz, who lives in the hotel.

Jumps From Window

Early today the party went to Horwitz's room. Miss Page appeared worried, the others said. At 9:30 she asked if a call had come from Chicago. The answer was "no." She seemed disappointed and even sobbed, it was said.

At 1:30 a. m. the two other girls were playing cards. Horowitz had stepped out. Horowitz entered the room just in time to see Miss Page's form disappear over the window ledge.

Police revealed there were letters in the room on the back of which was the name M. Lipsey and the return address 546 Brompton Road, Chicago.

Miss Page, who was 27, registered at the hotel April 8, giving her address as Chicago. Detectives say "M. Lipsey" was her husband.

Private Life Of Mayor Walker Not To Undergo Probe

Report Charging Mayor With Inefficiency Adopted By Republican Club

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 22.—An overwhelmingly vote to expunge from the report of its City Affairs Committee all references to the private life of Mayor Walker was recorded today by the National Republican Club.

After three hours of stormy debate, the club members voted just before midnight to remove mention of the Mayor's private affairs in connection with the charges of the committee that his administration was inefficient.

Those who stood for removal of the paragraphs in the report which charged the Mayor with visiting race tracks and night clubs, held their inclusion would be "poor politics and poor taste."

The remainder of the report, containing sweeping charges that Walker had failed to give New York competent administration was adopted. About 200 members voted.

Coast Officials Follow New Clue In Girl's Death

"Vanity Theory" Is Advanced By Police—Two Marines Questioned

PHOTOGRAPHER IS BEING DETAINED

(International News Service)

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 22.—Police today inclined to a "vanity theory" as a possible solution to the death of Louise Teuber, the 17-year-old girl, whose unclad body was found hanging from a tree Monday.

Louise, whose form was exceptional for her years, had posed for at least one commercial photographer here, police discovered. With this finding, the authorities today were convinced that she had disrobed unsolicited, and may have been posing for a photographer.

H. R. Newby, photographer and retired naval officer, arrested yesterday, admitted having made pictures of Louise in the nude. Police could not connect him with the murder, so he was not held for that, but was booked for violation of the law that forbids the photographing of a nude person.

Two United States Marines were questioned last night, but nothing was obtained that might link them with the girl's hanging.

International News Service Staff Correspondent

PURCHASE, N. Y., April 22.—At the end of the long long trail from the other side of the world, the king of Siam and his lovely young queen arrived today in the Little Kingdom of Ophir hall, set up for them during their visit to the United States.

King Prajadpipok and Queen Rambai Barni debarked from their royal train at Scarborough, N. Y., shortly after noon.

Despite his recent illness the absolute monarch of Siam smiled happily and raised his occidental fedora hat as he and her majesty permitted the photographers to "shoot" them.

An automobile awaited them and they motored through lanes of cheering and gaily decorated houses directly to their American home at the estate of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid.

A Personality Sketch By Central Press

King Prajadhipok of Siam, as you probably know, feels quite at home in American clothes, and takes his golf seriously.

Was only 13 when he was sent to England to attend classes at Eton.

Six years later he entered the Royal Military academy at Woolwich and learned to be a horseman.

On his return to Siam he entered into military maneuvers with such gusto, despite the terrific heat, that his health suffered.

New Record For White House

He's the first Oriental reigning sovereign ever to be received at the White House.

Among his more poetic titles are King of the North and South, Supreme Arbiter of Ebb and Flow of the Tide, Brother of the Moon, Half-Brother of the Sun, and Possessor of the Four and Twenty Golden Umbrellas.

Has a collection of canes that is unrivalled in Siam and likes to row and take pictures.

Movies in Palace

Among the eastern innovations in the palace at Bankok is a movie room and shower baths.

Ascended to the throne at the death of his brother, who left no male heir.

Eighty some automobiles stand in his garage, all painted the national color, yellow.

Went to Paris on his honeymoon with his queen, Rambai, where she was tutored in English and French.

Chicago Bandit Killed By Fall

Police Surprise Bandits In Roadhouse, One Killed, One Is Captured

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, April 22.—A reign of terror instituted by two bandits in the suburb of Melrose Park came to a sudden end early today when one of the desperadoes was killed in a leap to escape police and the other surrendered after he had been trapped.

The dead bandit was Michael Ferelli, 27. He was killed when he attempted to jump over a counter in the check room of the Palais Rue, a roadhouse, tripped, and fell, breaking his neck. George Ryan, 30, was the robber who was captured.

The pair had been discovered by a policeman holding up Ralph Carbon, owner of the roadhouse, and five customers. Previous to this, the pair had staged three other robberies in the suburb, police said.

Saw Many Fires While On Trip

Sheriff Frank N. Johnston Passes Through Section Devastated By Flames

Sheriff Frank N. Johnston who returned last night from Torrance, Pa., where he took a patient to the hospital, reports that he and Baker Wysner who accompanied him, saw many forest fires on their trip. In some places as many as three hundred men were fighting the fires. They saw one farmer out plowing furrows around his home in order to stop the flames and save his buildings.

Smoke was dense in some places and the roar of the fire could be heard for miles. The roar is made when the fire gets into a hollow tree, which acts as a chimney. All sorts of weapons were being used by the fire fighters, including shovels, brooms and boughs from trees.

At some of the fires which they passed there was a lack of men and passing motorists were being pressed into service whenever possible.

Sheriff Johnson reports that many homes have been destroyed and that heavy damage has been done through the mountains.

U. S. AMBASSADOR IS SPANISH PRESS TARGET

By THOMAS A. LOYAZA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MADRID, April 22.—A concerted drive was reported being planned by the Republican Press of Madrid today to oust a number of foreign ambassadors and ministers appointed to their posts during the monarchical regime.

One of the first to be singled out was Irwin Boyle Loughlin, American Ambassador, who was inferentially accused by the semi-official republican newspaper crisol as declaring the new provisional cabinet reminded him of a "gallery of jailbirds."

Ambassador Loughlin declined to make any comment on the newspaper attack, except to say: "I have placed the entire matter in the hands of President Zamora."

Crisol's article on Ambassador Loughlin did not mention him by name, but after attributing the alleged remark to a certain envoy, declared:

"We advise him to return to Pittsburgh, letting a new man take the post, in which he has sufficiently demonstrated his incompetency."

The attack by the Republican Press incumbent envoys is believed to be based on the theory they were sympathetic toward the monarchy. The newspapers were reported planning particularly to obtain the recall of the Cuban and Portuguese Ambassadors on these grounds.

Alfonso Extended Public Acclaim On Reaching London

Irony Of Fate Returns Exiled King To Chilly Official London

EXILED PORTUGESE KING IS ON HAND

Two Reasons Why Alfonso Is In London Are Advanced

By F. A. WRAY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 22.—Irony of fate returned Alfonso XIII to an officially chill London today only a few weeks after he departed from Buckingham palace with all honors due the king of Spain.

The populace bestowed upon him a welcome that outstripped all those he received on previous visits to England, but only the ring of police hard pressed to keep the surging throngs from mobbing the exiled Bourbon monarch gave evidence that British authorities were even aware of his presence in the country.

Speculation Rife.

Speculation ran rife today whether Buckingham palace, conspicuously unrepresented at Victoria station when the Duke of Toledo, incognito under which Alfonso travels, got off the train, would tender him an invitation during his business visit here.

The friendliest face to greet him was that of Don Emanuel, ex-king of Portugal, who awaited him at Claridge's hotel. The two exiled kings grasped hands and hurried to the royal suite reserved for Alfonso.

Two Real Persons.

The Duke of Miranda, Alfonso's official spokesman, reiterated that his sovereign's sole object in coming to London was to make arrangements for entering his third son, the Infante Juan, in the British naval academy. On good authority it was again asserted that the real reasons are two:

First, to sell some of his investments to secure ready cash for maintenance of his household at Fontainebleau.

Second, to sign a formal decree of abdication effective if Spanish elections prove overwhelmingly Republican.

Honduran Rebels Concentrate For Inland Attacks

American Legation Arranges With Government For Neutral Zone

WOMEN-CHILDREN ARE EVACUATED

Three Thousand Federal Troops Make Advance Into Threatened Area

(International News Service)

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, April 22—The American legation informed that the Honduran rebels along the Northern coast had swung inland and were concentrating forces around San Pedro Sula, arranged with the government today for establishment of a neutral zone in that area for the protection of the large foreign colonies.

Defeated in a series of encounters with federal troops in the vicinity of important coast cities, the insurrectionists rallied at inland points under General Roman Diaz and planned an assault upon San Pedro Sula, "key city" of northern Honduras.

Three thousand federal troops under Generals Valladares and Alvarado moved into the threatened area, which in addition to San Pedro Sula includes the towns of Buffalo, La Lima and Villa Nueva. As heavy fighting was expected to develop in that region, American women and children at Lima and other sections were evacuated in safer centers.

Firemen Check Bank Block Blaze

Damage Estimated At $2,000 Done By New Wilmington Fire

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., April 22.—Fire occasioned approximately $2,000 damage in the Bank block, on the main street here about 9 o'clock this morning, gaining a start from an electric torch that was being used to remove paint in the room in the rear of the building, formerly used as the post office.

Through a crack in the wall, the torch set fire to the building, along the stairway and under the second floor.

The borough fire department answered the alarm in quick time, and did effective work, halting the blaze in a short time, although it was in a rather difficult part of the building to fight.

Loss is estimated by owners of the building at about $2,000; covered by insurance.

The fire was the first that has developed in any of the larger buildings of the town since the fire department was reorganized, and the new fire engine secured. The response of the firemen and the work today under fire chief, A. J. McCready was excellent, residents of the borough agree.

The fact that the borough has an efficient fire department probably prevented a destructive blaze in the building today.

KANE, Pa., April 22.—Successful, at least temporarily, in halting a forest fire that had advanced rapidly on the little town of Clermont, 20 miles east of here, 600 men who had fought incessantly for 48 hours to control the flames concentrated their efforts today on insuring permanency of the victory they had gained.

Beaten back steadily by the fiery onslaught, the little army of sweating, exhausted men late yesterday dropped shovels, hoes and other impromptu firefighting equipment and "fought fire with fire" by starting a raging backfire in the path of the advancing flames.

Episcopal Church Joins In Protest

Episcopal Church Joins Society Of Friends In Appealing Nurse's Case

BRIEF IS GIVEN SUPREME COURT

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The Protestant Episcopal church today joined the American Society of Friends in opposing the government's claim to the right to bar conscientious objectors to war from naturalization.

In a brief given the supreme court on behalf of a dozen dignitaries of the Episcopal church, Emily Marx asserted that principles involved in the naturalization case of Marie Averill Bland vitally affect the church.

Miss Bland, a former Canadian war nurse and Episcopalian, it is pointed out, was denied naturalization because she would not take an oath to bear arms for the government in time of war. She won in the circuit court and the government appealed.

The Episcopals, in supporting her case in the high ccurt, explained their church had declared "war as a method of settling international disputes is incompatible with the teaching and example of our Lord Jesus."

"Unless this court affirms the circuit court," the brief said, "all members of our church who have been naturalized since June 29, 1906, and who share views herein before expressed, will be subject to possible denaturalization."

New Castle Party On Airplane Trip

Local Post Office Boosters Go Up In Tri-Motored Plane At Washington

County Commissioner T. J. McCullough, who was one of the New Castle party of East Siders who went to Washington in connection with the opening of bids for the local postoffice, reports that while in Washington the entire party took a ride in a tri-motored airplane.

Others in the party were Jack Crowl, E. R. Wolf, J. A. Wright, W. G. Braatz, Attorney J. Elder Bryan, and Harold Hunter, secretary to Congressman Swick. Commissioner McCullough, with several of the others, was reluctant to go up in the plane but a vote was taken and a majority decided that the party should go up.

The plane in which they made the trip circled Washington at a height of over 2000 feet. Commissioner McCullough was afraid that the trip might make him sick, but he stood it first rate as did other members of the party. "It was just like riding in an automobile" he said, except that it was smoother. "The fare on sight seeing planes in Washington is $1.50. There were a dozen or more planes on the field and they all seemed to be doing a good business.

You're the JUDGE

A paint store next to a crockery store burned. One wall remained standing.

The wall remained standing thus for some time, but one day a wind came up and the wall went down. Some of its bricks crashed through the windows of the crockery store and demolished a quantity of glassware and choice pottery. A. Hunkhum, the owner of the store, said that he knew it would happen eventually, and filed suit against Bilson Stitt, owner of the other store.

At the trial Stitt argued that he intended leaving the wall standing only until the fire insurance investigators had made the report, and that this was necessary. Anyway, he continued, he could not be held responsible for a falling wall.

How would you decide this case? Make up you mind before you read the decision.

Soaking Rain Is Beneficial

Rain which started falling early this morning will have an extremely beneficial effect.

The ground has become quite dry during the past two weeks and local streams are at a low stage for this time of the year. Many farmers were becoming apprehensive of the situation, fearing that continued dry weather would seriously affect the hay crop and might also cause their springs and wells to dry up again.

The rain will also halt forest and field fires which have been raging over the state, causing serious damage.

conflagration, leaving in its wake a burned stretch of woodland that insured temporary security to Clermont.

Although the wind increased to gale velocity today and despite the fact that the line of fire which had converged on Clermont was halted only 400 feet from the village line, District Forester H. S. Elliott expressed belief that the flames had been beaten into control by the backfire.

Survey of the wide swath of destruction swept over by the fire disclosed that 6,000 acres of second growth timberland had fallen prey to the flames which had burned a huge ring, 15 miles in circumference, in the heart of this fertile, timber-bearing section.

Most of the land burned over is owned by the Mars Company which suffered loss to oil and gas leases, and by the Buffalo Coal Company.

Wells Destroyed

While a definite check up of destroyed wells was not obtainable, at least four gas wells and fifteen pipe line gates were set on fire, spouting flaming gas 75 feet into the air. Four well houses were destroyed.

Telephone lines north, east and south of Clermont were severed. Linemen were working today in an attempt to restore communications.

Betula, a nearby village, for whose safety fears also had been felt, was reported temporarily safe today.

Credit for saving Clermont and Betula was given to the heroic work of United Natural Gas Company employes. Familiar with the territory, the workers were recruited from a host of stations in Northwestern Pennsylvania and directed the work of the imported firefighters.

Garden Seeds Are Not Yet Available For Distribution

Will Be Given Out To Those Making Application About First Of Month

Many of these seeking free seeds from the garden project committee are under the impression that seeds are ready for distribution now and have been causing the committee some embarassment by coming to the Red Cross office for them at frequent intervals.

These seeds will not be ready for distribution until about the first of May, it was stated this morning.

The committee feels that some of the people who would get their seeds now would be tempted to plant them at once, in view of the good weather that has been experienced during the past week or so. Later on their crops would most likely be killed off by frosts as the season is too early for all varieties of garden crops.

Only onions, lettuce, cabbage, peas and the like can be planted now. It is much too early for corn, potatoes, tomatoes and many other garden vegetables, it was stated.

Those seeking seeds later on may register now and the seeds will be given them when they arrive.

Many requests have been received for seed potatoes. These will be supplied if enough can be secured. Any person having potatoes which are suitable for seed is asked to get in touch with the Red Cross. A reasonable price will be paid for these seed potatoes.

STAR LORE

INTERESTING FACT ABOUT MOON'S ANNUAL ORBITS

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter.

Keeping in mind that a Siderial year is the time it takes the sun to appear to journey around the starry universe from a given star back to that same star again, and that a tropical year is the time required for sun to appear to go around the starry heavens from vernal equinox back to vernal equinox, here is an interesting fact: That the number of Siderial months or times the moon journeys around the sky annually from a given star back to that star, is just one time more than its Synodic revoultions (or complete journeys from new moon back to new moon). The moon makes 13.369 orbital revolutions of the former, and 12.369 of the latter.

Patrons To Discuss Consolidated School

Washington Township Residents To Take Up Matter At A Meeting Soon

It is probable that a meeting of Washington township residents will be held soon to discuss the proposition of erecting a building for a consolidated school. At present there are only three schools in operation in Washington township, the Carr, Jackson and Hilltop. During recent years three other schools, the Jordan, Potter Run and Carter schools have been closed.

There has been some talk of transporting pupils in the three remain schools to other schools outside the township, and paying tuition, but it is understood that there is considerable opposition to this plan. Residents believe that the community spirit would be lost and that the expense would be considerable.

Washington township is said to be in good shape financially and could easily erect a consolidated school if so disposed. The transportation from the three schools to the consolidated school would not be a difficult problem.

If a school were erected it would mean that the township would have to vote on a bond issue to cover the expense. Those in touch with the building situation believe that this would be a very propitious time to build, as costs are down considerably from what they were a few years ago.

It is for the purpose of getting the views of taxpayers on the proposition that a meeting is to be held.

Expectations of Shenango high school's music supervisors were exceeded considerably last night when a large group of township fathers and mothers and friends gathered in the school aduitorium to hear the student musicians perform in their fourth annual concert. The program was an outstanding success.

Nearly 115 boys and girls were among the participants, and were thoroughly rehearsed for the affair by Prof. Charles G. Lindner, instrumental music director, and Miss Harriet Hanna, supervisor of vocal music.

A COMEDY WE ALL ENACT

THE thrifty town of Bow, New Hampshire, feeling the pinch of the times voted to economize by dispensing with electric light. Had not its grandsires got along with lanterns? Wholesome it would be, as the elders declared, and romantic, as the youngsters opined, to return to the simple old days.

Thus the first twilight of April dimmed and darkened over Bow, with only the bonny stars, eked out by window lamps and vagrant flashes, to guide the wanderer. The poet, belike, found it to his heart's desire; but life, alas! runs largely in prose. And, notwithstanding their fervor of frugality, after the third night the citizens held another town meeting and voted, two hundred and eighteen to forty-seven, to turn on the electric lights.

That bit of comedy is enacted over and over in the minds of us all. We deplore the machine age and long for the idyllic. But when it comes to parting with any one of the conveniences that go with these giddy times, we vote modern. Howbeit, we have this excuse—our ancestors have been setting us the example for thousands of years.

ON GETTING ALONG

Every community has its members who can not get along with their fellow citizens. Many offices, stores and factories have persons on the staff who are incompatible with their fellow workers. Every man and woman knows somebody he or she "can't bear."

No two persons are alike, and every nation and race has traits peculiar to itself. Sometimes the point of disagreement is opinion, such as religious, race or national prejudice. Between individuals attitude, habits, personality and tastes may be the cause for dislike. Sometimes people disgust others and often they even anger their fellows. Women are said to be even more prone to take personal dislikes to others than are men, but among men there is often heard the remark, "if it wasn't for the law."

But this is a large world and one person has no more right to it than another. Since it is no longer feasible to lead the life of a recluse or hermit or to retire to the recesses of a mon's monastic cell, people must learn to conquer their dislikes and aversions. It isn't easy and it isn't pleasant, but it is frequently necessary. Workmen have been successful in abolishing working conditions, but they have never evolved a sure method of ridding themselves of undesirable working companions.

People make life easier and sweeter for themselves by seeing the one good trait in the person who has a dozen bad traits.

ATHLETIC SIDE OF HAVERFORD PLAN

Although Haverford college expects to begin the next century of its existence with emphasis on a plan for quality education, a subordinate feature of the program deals with athletics. Each student will engage in a major and two minor sports, one of which he will probably continue to keep up in his mature life. Doubtless a reasonable degree of proficiency will be expected and his academic degree may be contingent on it.

Many colleges already regard physical development as something more than a recreation element; they are recognizing the disciplinary side. A physical examination is required at entrance. Gymnasium classes for freshmen are inescapable. Ability to swim may now be essential for graduation.

But forms of bodily training are a different thing from competitive sport. One may pull chest weights and swing Indian clubs only half-heartedly and still get a modicum of benefit if the exercise is regular. On the other hand, if an undergraduate plays at some game with no zest, he misses practically everything it has to offer and he must prove highly irritating to an opponent. Some men play football today without enjoying it, being kept at the pitch required for staying on the team by the campus atmosphere of college patriotism. In other words, compulsory sport may become as odious as compulsory Latin.

The problem of the slacker in physical education is much newer than the problem of the intellectual slacker, because heretofore bodily training has been largely optional with the individual. But Haverford proposes to handle both in the same way. It can be done, too. For those who fail to comply in either particular will be dropped. With a list of applicants for admission so long that twice as many will be rejected as are admitted, the college today is in a position to pick and choose as never before.

A GOVERNOR WHO RESPECTS CONSTITUTION

It is encouraging to note in these days, when so many of our so-called good citizens and even some of our political leaders encourage the nullification of certain laws or parts of the constitution which they do not like, to find the governor of Illinois standing squarely for the constitution.

A few days ago Governor Louis L. Emmerson vetoed the bill repealing the state prohibition enforcement act which had been passed by both houses of the legislature and in face of the referendum vote which was taken by the people at the last election against prohibition.

The governor, in vetoing the measure, said that his signing it would leave Illinois for the first time in history without any state law for control or regulation of intoxicating beverages. "It attempts" said he, to nullify the provisions of the 18th amendment. It would remove all state laws on liquor and the serious consequences of such a situation cannot be ignored. The repeal of the laws is not a mere gesture of disapproval of prohibition but tends to strike at the fundamental unity of the national government. I am not for nullification. A majority of the thinking people in Illinois are dissatisfied with conditions but we will not attempt to correct the evils by wiping out all liquor regulations. We cannot cure individual disregard for laws by state disregard for the federal constitution." All law-abiding citizens not only in the state of Illinois but throughout the country will endorse these words of the Illinois governor. His position is in strong contrast to that of the governors of New York and New Jersey and some other states who signed bills of repeal.

The state cannot disregard the mandates of the federal constitution without placing themselves in a position of being nullifications. Many of our citizens may not approve of prohibition as a national polity, but so long as we have the 18th amendment in the constitution it is the duty of the states as well as of the federal government to enact laws to make it effective.

An Argument With a Friend You Think You're Unhappy Perhaps You Are Not

By MARSHALL MASLIN

You say you're unhappy and you don't know what you can do about it. You suppose you were born miserable and will remain miserable to the end. You're like that because that's you're Chemical Mixture and it can't be changed.

I don't believe you. You just think you're unhappy; but inside of you, you are really a happy person. How do I know? Perhaps I can't convince you against your own determination to be unhappy, but I've been watching you closely and I've seen you, many a time, trying to be a sour philosopher and failing because cheerfulness kept breaking through.

If you were an unhappy man who thought he was happy, I wouldn't say a word about it. Because if a man's happy, let him be happy—that's what I say—and the man who goes out of his way to destroy his fair bubble of joyfulness is a mean and malicious scoundrel. Or a depraved fool. Or a dangerous child.

* * *

But you really are happy, and you should know it. I remember something that happened to me, one day. I thought I was depressed. The world seemed a woeful place, and I hated it. I lived in a black cloud, and I pitied people who smiled and who had energy and who had a cheerful faith in things. Poor idiots, I said to myself; they don't know they walk above a furious volcano.

In such a mood I walked the streets, in a state of mind to despise all men and women that I met. I moved through crowds, resenting their presence, sneering . . . At least, I THOUGHT I was sneering. With one part of my mind I was being miserable.

* * *

But suddenly, after a while, I discovered something. As I walked along I found myself liking the strangers I saw. I'd see a young girls, in a pretty dress, smiling, and I'd find myself thinking, "There's a nice youngster."

I'd pass a woman with a serene beauty all about her, and I'd be thinking, "A handsome woman." I met an old man and thought, "He has a strong face." I encountered many a young fellow and judged kindly, "There's a fine lad." . . . Wherever I went, I made cheerful and ridiculous observations about human beings. I was almost gushing in my approval of the strangers I saw on the street.

Then, in a flash, I knew I was not unhappy. You can't be a gloom and be thinking such thoughts at the same time. Only an optimist can do that.

And I'm convinced, Poor Idiot, that you are like that. You think you're a Stagnant Swamp, but a Spring of Sweet Water is always bubbling within you. I've seen it, I've heard it—and I know that you are happy, even if YOU do not.

HEEDLESS

Take time for friendship when you can.
The hours fly swiftly, and the need
That presses on your fellow man
May fade away at equal speed
And you may sigh before the end
That you have failed to play the friend.

Not all life's pride is born of fame;
Not all the joy from work is won.
Too late we hang our heads in shame,
Remembering good we could have done;
Too late we wish that we had stayed
To comfort those who called for aid.

The heedless moment robs us all
Of memories sweet to contemplate.
We hear a faint and feeble call,
But think we have no time to wait,
And later when the need is gone
We wish we had not hurried on.

Take time to do the little things
Which leave the satisfactory thought,
When other joys have taken wings,
That we have labored as we ought;
That in a world where all contend,
We often stopped to be a friend.

EVERY ONE CAN

See the mistake except the man who makes it.
Tell you why you have failed after you have done it.
Tell you how you might have done it very much better.
Appear wise when there is no problem to be solved.
Meet another man's problems easier than he can meet his own.
View his own weaknesses complacently though he grumbles at another's.
Think lightly of the pain from which he does not suffer.

Failure Of Appeal In Fall Case Is Reminder Of Legal Delays

Increased Tendency Of Public To Hold Prominent Offenders Responsible For Their Acts Is Observed By Those Who Comment

Decision of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia affirming sentence of a year in jail and a fine of $100,000 for Albert B. Fall is held by the country to be just another step in a long-drawn-out case. The oil scandals are viewed as an example of delayed justice which should lead to improvement in legal methods, but it is declared that there is a growing tendency to hold prominent offenders responsible for their acts.

"Assuredly justice has been leaden-footed," asserts the ST. LOUIS POST- DISPATCH, "in this battle of the government with its betrayer and plunderers, but instead of 'iron-handed blows' the country has beheld the furious gestures of shadow-boxing. Indeed, the impotency of the Government to bring powerful offenders to book was accentuated by the spectacle of important witnesses fleeing the country and contemptuously defying the authority of the courts. Blackmer continues to be a 'fugitive from the subpena,' but thanks to a bill, now a law, introduced by Senator Walsh of Montana, to whom the nation is indebted for the exposure of the plot which the elder La Follette discovered, and for the recovery of the oil lands—thanks to Senator Walsh an absconding witness can now at least be made to pay. Blackmer has already forfeited $100,000 and another fine of $60,000 is recorded against him. But the disturbing verdict of this whole historic conspiracy is that justice has failed badly."

"What we see now," according to the DAYTON DAILY NEWS, "is a stage in the long judicial course which lies between conviction and execution of sentence. Nine years after the oil fraunds of 1922 one out of perhaps a dozen men privy to the transaction and implicated in it has been brought within sight of a prison door. To date the blackest chapter in our American political history has gone virtually unpunished, either criminally or politically."

"The process of justice is not so slow when some obscure and friendless person is accused of a much lesser degree of robbery. He finds himself in jail in a hurry and runs no winning race with Father Time," suggests the AKRON BEACON JOURNAL, while the SCRANTON TIMES maintains that "there should be greater speed in finally disposing of these cases," as delay "only serves to make people feel and believe that with enough money and influence, justice and the courts can be thwarted," and the SHREVEPORT JOURNAL finds satisfaction in the fact that "he is just one step outside the prison, as a result of the action of the court in affirming decisions and sentences imposed more than a year ago."

"The chapter has been one of the most disgraceful in the whole history of the country," states the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS, "exceeding in extent and importance the Bellnap scandals in the Grant administration. It does not encourage public belief in the substantial justice of our court procedure that Fall has been able to avoid prison for nearly eight years, after his conduct was fully exposed by Democratic members of the Senate of the United States."

"While it has been impossible so far to secure the jailing of any person or persons," comments the ALLENTOWN MORNING CALL, "the effects have been good. It is unlikely that many men will take such bold chances again as those that were taken in the bold steals of Teapot Dome and Elk Hills." The TOLEDO BLADE voices the conclusion that "decisions indicate that there has been no advantage in these cases to the wealthy or powerful." The PORT HURON TIMES-HERALD believes that "more than ever we are demanding clean business and official integrity of our public servants, and he who fails to walk straight all the way must be prepared to take the consequences." The MINNEAPOLIS STAR maintains that "even final punishment will not end the story of Teapot Dome"; that "such depravity goes down in history."

"Somehow it would seem," in the judgment of the DANBURY NEWS, "as though Albert B. Fall would be relieved to get even into prison, out of the sight of his normal fellow citizens. Since the accusations were brought against him he has hidden, shamed and shameful, in his ranch, denying himself to visitors, furtive, haunted and hounded, every recollection of his former high position a hammer-blow to his pride, and in awful contrast to his present situation. Nobody can take any pleasure in contemplating this sad wreck of what was once a successful career. A look in Fall's direction, however, might strengthen belief in the old and sometimes forgotten saying concerning the wages of sin."

"An enlivened public interest in bringing highly placed offenders to justice," is emphasized by the DETROIT FREE PRESS, with the explanation: "The ethics of business and public life in this country, which may be arrived at by multiplying the human equation by opportunity to indulge one's cupidity, are perhaps no higher today than they have averaged during the past; but it seems clear that the public is maintaining a more vigilant watch upon men in high places and insisting more vigorously on their playing the game honestly or taking the consequences. A little knowledge of what has gone before sometimes makes the present less appalling and the future less discouraging."

"For this transgressor," says the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD, "the way has been made hard. Old, weary, feeble, disgraced—and once he was a mighty cattle king of the great southwest, arrogant and ruthless in the exercise of political power. Then he became a United States senator, a proud and bold leader in the upper chamber of our congress, and from there passed to sit at the right hand of a president of the United States as one of his chosen counselors. The mighty, when they fall, fall far. Jail would be little farther. How much better it would have been for Fall had he

CRITICIZING YOUR CHILDREN?

Don't you often make unfavorable comments and comparisons between members of your own and other families?

You say in effect, "Now why can't you appear as Mrs. So-and-So?" "Why is it that our children are not as attractive as the children of Mrs. This or That?"

Well, whose fault it it if your children are not popular or attractive?

Are you not as much to blame as any one?

If you do not provide the clothes or permit your family to enjoy the advantages which will improve them how can you expect them to make as good an appearance as those well-favored in these ways?

There may be a detrimental strain in your children which come from your family.

They may not naturally have the bearing and general winsomeness of the family you admire, but it is not their fault.

You ought to be more sympathetic and friendly to your children since you brought them into the world with certain well-defined characteristics.

Perhaps you have not been as painstaking with them as other parents are with their children.

Your manner may cultivate rebellious spirit in them. A lack of companionship on your part may wean them away and hinder their growth in the way you so desire.

Further Plans For Memorial Day Program

Committees Are Named To Take Care Of Arrangements For Celebration

USUAL PROGRAM TO BE CARRIED OUT

Plans for the annual observance of Memorial Day are gradually taking shape under the direction of committees named to represent the various patriotic organizations of the city.

Flags, markers and flowers have been ordered for the graves of the deceased veterans in the cemeteries in the local district and committees to decorate the graves in the various cemeteries will be named in the near future.

Sub-committees to handle the various arrangements have been named by General Chairman Ralph M. Campbell, as follows:

Speakers—Dr. C. C. Green, C. A. Leslie, James A. Hewitt, John D. Kennedy and Frank A. Schetrom.

Music—Frank S. Nessle, Ralph Montgomery, Orville Potter and Charles Schetrom.

Parade—Ivor V. Davis, Fred H. Kay, Ed C. Pritchard, and Chester Sweesy.

The speakers committee is now in communication with a good speaker for the day, and expects to have this arrangement completed in the near future. The usual program will be carried out during the day.

No definite plans have as yet been made for the visitation of the schools, but the committee expects to have this arrangement worked out in a short time.

"What a judgment it is," exclaims the KANSIS CITY TIMES, "for a man advanced in years and broken in health; a man who, for the greater part of his life, was accustomed to high honors and positions of great public trust. But here is a man who already had been twice branded by the federal supreme court as a 'faithless public official,' a man who had been a party to the making of the Teapot Dome leases 'by means of collusion and conspiracy.' Such is the course of true justice with the wrongdoer; such is the tragedy of a public trust, shamefully abused."

1405—Your summer wardrobe is not complete without this charming 2 piece Shantung Suit, consisting of sleeveless dress, and cape collared jacket, trimmed in two-tone effects. ## Bond Issue Vote Comes On Friday

Councilmen Are At Odds On Measure—Genkinger And Treser Favor Measure

Councilmanic opinions expressed during Tuesday's informal session of city fathers developed that there will be a hot skirmish when the proposed ordinance which would increase the bond indebtedness of the city comes to a vote.

Mayor William Gillespie and Councilman Burns indicated they would oppose the measure while Councilmen Genkinger and Treser indicated they would vote for the bill. Councilman Reeves did not openly indicate what position he would adopt when the bill comes to final vote.

Today Councilmen Genkinger and Treser discussed the proposed bond ordinance during the presence of Controller Phillip Greer who stated when asked that the bond indebtedness in 1928 was $1,095,000 and bonds have been retired to a point where the bond indebtedness is now $970,000.

Councilman Genkinger pointed out that of the $1,095,000 there was $614,471 required for state projects, such as the sewage disposal plant, Gardner avenue viaduct and the P. R. R. bridge in West Washington street. The remainder was used on local improvements.

According to Greer the city can be bonded for two percent of its assessed valuation which is generally placed at $57,000,000. With the present indebtedness of about $970,000, this would permit passage of the proposed ordinance to increase the debt $100,000 and leave a leeway of $70,000.

Councilmen discussed the ordinance in view of the action taken yesterday when it was practically decided that only a certain amount of paving and repaving would be put through this spring and summer. Genkinger and Treser are in favor of passing the ordinance and making more extensive improvements.

Best Doctor Plans For Emergencies

Patient Needs Protection From Needless Danger

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A patient was talking to me about the charge Dr. A. made for an obstetric case. She said it was not excessive, but that Dr. B. charged her friends less. But that Dr. B. charged extra for repair work, etc., and Dr. A.'s charge, it had been agreed beforehand, would include everything. Dr. B., she admitted, usually had to do repair work on his patients, so her friends' fees were usually actually more than hers. Dr. A. had not been compelled to do any extensive repair work on her.

In my opinion Dr. A.'s charge was fair because the patient was paying him, among other things, for preventing a number of disagreeable or dangerous things from happening. He was a competent man and he was prepared for any emergency, even took steps to forestall any.

That is certainly what you should expect from your doctor—that he will protect you not only from disease itself, if possible, but also from useless, painful and dangerous procedures, of which the world is full.

Rereading the farewell address of Oliver Wendell Holmes to the medical students of Harvard, I found the passage in which he tells that one of the surprising things he learned during his early hospital career was that many patients got well without any medicine at all. It was a startling revelation in those days for, as Dr. Holmes said, a practitioner carried his own bag of drugs around full of bottles and pill boxes and dispensed the drugs to his patients himself. That was the only way he got paid. Patients would not pay for the "visit," but they would pay for the medicine. So they all got medicine. No wonder students and preceptories in medicine came to believe drugs were necessary to treatment.

But isn't the doctor worth his fee just as much if he saves you from the use of an expensive, probably inert and nauseous drug when it is unnecessary as he is when he prescribes one that is necessary?

Just after I was discharged from military service—the date is important to the story and that is how I remember it—I was called by telegram across the continent to see a patient in consultation. He had been told he needed a very serious operation. The surgeon, in my presence, told him if he did not have the operation then he would have to have it in two years, and if he did not have it then he would die within four years. I persuaded them both to wait and see. That was 12 years ago. The patient is still alive, has never had the operation, and is in better health than he ever was. Was I, or was I not, entitled to just as bountiful a reward as the surgeon would have received if he had performed the operation?

The sick man wants something done right now for him. "Let's get down to business at once on this—get things done." The doctor who saves you from doing some radical and useless, even harmful procedure is worthy of his hire.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

It hardly seems possible to most residents of the city at the present time, but it is approximately sixty-eight years since the first railroad train or perhaps it would be more appropriate to say the first railroad engine entered the city, but such is the case according to a well known resident of the city still residing here after all that time.

He remembers how together with his father, he went across the old Black covered bridge, which crossed the Shenango river near the present location of the New Castle Works of the Carnegie Steel company, in order to be among the great throng of people, who were on hand to see the first engine as it puffed into the city from the Beaver Valley District over what was the inception of the Erie and Pittsburgh, which is today a part of the E. & A. Division, operating up along the Shenango and goes to Erie.

There was an immense throng of curious people from throughout the entire district present to participate in this momentous event, which really had much to do with the present importance of the city. It was a gala occasion and was in fact a regular holiday.

Tomorrow:—A few years ago when horses, livery stables and horseshoers were an important part of the every day life of the city.

"Yes, sonny."

"Then pinch it hard. I want to go skating."

There is one commodity, once valuable, that works contrary to the laws of supply and demand. Usually things are cheap if they are plentiful and dear if they are rare. But crowns, the fewer they become the less attractive and valuable they are.—The Savannah Morning News.

UNIQUE TREE IS DYING

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 22.—Pennsylvania's "unique" tree is dying, according to officials of the department of forests and waters. The tree, a prostrate juniper, had a spread of 45 feet and is just three feet high. It covers about 2000 square feet of ground and is close to 200 years old. State forestry officials say the tree is the most southern outpost of the prostrate juniper family.

Dozen Bills Are Passed In House Session Tuesday

Deadline For Introduction Of New Bills Reached —Busy Session Planned

SENATE MEMBERS ARE BIDING TIME

Estimate Number Of Bills In House In Present Session About 2,000

By WILLIAM B. BROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 22.—Deadline for introduction of new bills in the lower chamber, today gave indications of being an extremely busy one as both chambers reconvened for an active session.

With the lid on in the House on new bills, except for those introduced by suspension of rules or unanimous consent, a last minute flood of proposed legislation was expected in that chamber, enough to bring the number of bills presented there close to 2,000 for the session.

Dozen Measures Passed

At its session last night, the House cleared its third reading calendar of several measures, passing more than a dozen measures and defeating a bill by Rep. Goehring, Allegheny, to permit boys under 12 to be employed as caddies. An echo of the Blue Law fight of yesterday was heard in connection with defeat of the Goehring Bill, when anti-Blue Law members plumped their votes against it because Goehring opposed the Sowers move to legalize Sunday baseball yesterday.

Still another anti-blue measure, the Denning Bill providing for local option on the Sunday baseball question, was reported out of the elections committee and passed on first reading in the House today.

New Bills Presented

New bills continued to flow into the chamber and were shot into committee while the Senate held a perfunctory session.

In the upper chamber, the McClure Congressional Reapportionment Bill was reported for passage. It will be recommitteed for continued study after two readings.

The Harris Bill providing for a constitutional amendment to provide for absentee voting was also reported for the Senate.

Possibility of the proposed election code being enacted at this session was believed dim today, following action of the House elections committee in voting to postpone action indefinitely on the measure. Separate bills covering many of the proposals of the code have been introduced and will be moved along, but the code as a whole is expected to go into the discard, although in the Senate Senator Raly, Somerset, chairman of the elections committee, announced the bill was still in an active state.

Report Unfinished

The Upper House today received the Bidelspacher Bill providing for collection of the gasoline tax from wholesalers instead of retailers passed unanimously by the Lower House.

In that chamber, Rep. D. Glenn Moore, Washington, chairman of the utilities investigating committee, announced the preliminary report of the committee will not be presented before next Monday night. The report was expected to have been turned in this week, covering action of the probe body to date, but all members of the committee could not agree on phraseology and recommendations and the differences will be ironed out in conferences during the latter part of the week.

Hoover Planning To Attend Annual Fete To Pilgrims

President And Party Will Go To Cape Henry, Va., On Saturday

PRESIDENT NOT SLATED TO SPEAK

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Hoover has commandeered a Department of Commerce inspection boat to take him on the 175-mile trip down the Potomac River Saturday to Cape Henry, Va., where, on Sunday, he will join in the 324th anniversary pilgrimage to the spot where the pilgrims first landed.

The houseboat "Dixie," which served as one of his fishing fleet in Florida in February, 1930, is the vessel upon which Mr. Hoover and a limited party will essay the voyage down to Chesapeake Bay. To make the Capes in time for the ceremonies Sunday afternoon, the Presidential party will leave here Saturday afternoon as it will take from 16 to 18 hours to make the journey.

In all, the "Dixie," upon which the President used to make fishing trips when he was Secretary of Commerce, will accommodate about half a dozen guests.

The pilgrimage which is drawing Mr. Hoover into Virginia is an annual affair commemorating the fateful day in 1607 when Captain John Smith and his little band of English settlers first saw land, touching Cape Henry and Old Point before sailing to Jamestown where the famous colony was settled. A cross on the tip of Cape Henry marks the spot where the pilgrims landed and offered prayers of thanks for their safe crossing.

Religious services will be held at the cross. The President will not speak. He will return immediately to Washington.

Chicago Beer War Threat Looming

Slaying Of McErlane Henchman May Be Start Of Another Beer War

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, April 22.—Renewal of a South Side beer war was feared by police today as the result of the murder yesterday of Frank McErlane's chief lieutenant, Edward Fitzgerald.

Eddie Courtney, another McErlane henchman, was beaten in the affray in which five assassins smashed their way into a saloon to get their victims.

Police credit the fatal shooting to a gang headed by Edward ("Spike") O'Donnell, with whom McErlane recently dissolved partnership.

Governor Asks People Of State To See That Gigantic Program Is Enacted

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 22—Appealing to the people of the state for their aid in seeing that the legislature acts favorably upon his program, Governor Gifford Pinchot today urged them to bring pressure to bear upon their elected representatives.

The governor charged that men "both in and out of the general assembly" are working hard to prevent legislation beneficial to the people, as instances of matters being attacked he cited the election code, the fair rate bills and the proposal that the governor be given more power to remove members of the public service commission.

"Draw the line between the men who are working for the people and the men who are working against the people for the utilities and for the Philadelphia gang," the governor said.

Doctor Is Held On Dope Charge

Prominent Pittsburgh Physician Held For Selling Narcotic Prescriptions

COUPLE REVEAL HEAVY PAYMENTS

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 22.—Dr. Isaac S. Diller, 40, prominent Pittsburgh physician was arrested in his home in the exclusive Squirrel Hill district today when Mike Cannos, 28, and his wife, Betty, 27, told police the physician had provided them with numerous prescriptions for narcotics.

The physician, reported indignant over his arrest, was held on a suspicious person charge. Federal authorities planned to question him today.

Arrest of Dr. Diller followed the attempt of Mrs. Cannos to obtain narcotics on a prescription to which the physician's name had been forged, police said. Detectives, who took her husband into custody at his home, reported finding 65 empty prescription boxes on which the name of the physician appeared.

Detective Walter Kaiser declared a statement by the couple revealed they had paid Dr. Diller more than $2,000 for narcotics during the last six months. The payments, according to the statement, were made at the rate of $2, $3, $4 or $5 a prescription, Kaiser said.

The money comprised the life savings of the couple and Cannos, a former waiter, lost his job because of using dope, according to Kaiser.

Cannos was quoted by police as saying that the last prescription obtained from the physician was last week. Without funds, and craving narcotics, the wife forged the prescription, police said.

Men's Night At Dibble Meetings

Large Crowd Attends Meeting Tuesday In Epworth M. E. Church

Another full house greeted the Dibble party and the Jubilee Singers last night in the Epworth M. E church. It was men's night and a fine company of gentlemen were seated in the front.

The Jubilee Singers proved beyond any doubt that they are one of the finest organizations of their kind in the country. They sang several of the old time plantation spirituals, so characteristic because of the rhythm and the feeling of the message of these songs of slave days. They also sang something different last night, rendering that popular number, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia." One of the best ones they gave was an old slave song, "My Lord, What Mourning". These singers know how to sing these spirituals and one could almost hear a pin drop in the building during the numbers.

Mrs. Dibble brought another one of her wonderful messages on the topic "God's Three Sentinels," taking her Scripture from the story of Paul before Felix. "God has placed in the path of every man, three sentinels. The sentinel of conscience, which can be either heeded or seared. The sentinel of reason and the sentinel of the Voice of God. Any man who rejects the Lord Jesus Christ will have to step around these sentinels."

Services continuing every night this week. Seats are at a premium. Watch this paper for a special announcement for Saturday and Sunday.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Well Trained Child Hope Of Teacher

Modern Pupil Lacks Regard For Others' Rights

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

I think I know some of the problems which the teachers faces, since I have taught in every grade from the first through to the graduate school inclusive.

She wants us to send to school a healthy child, trained in good habits of self-restraint, with appropriate regard for the rights of other children and a reasonable respect for authority. She would like to spend her time in teaching what she is supposed to teach rather than in training our child in self-control.

The teacher wishes we would train our children to be careful of their own clothes and other possessions and to show due consideration of the property of others.

* * *

Ask the average teacher what her pupils lack most often and she will reply: "Regard for others' rights." As a result they sometimes steal things at school, are careless with their own books and supplies, are wasteful of the books and supplies which are given them from public funds, and sometimes they mar and destroy school property.

On the way to and from school, they sometimes run over lawns and destroy flowers and shrubbery of homes they pass. If your child or mine does such things we have fallen down in training them at home.

Your child and mine have the right to learn early habits of regard for the possessions of others. Not having this they are in danger of coming into numerous conflicts with others, of being scolded, punished, and labeled as destructive children. The moment our children earn such a reputation they have lost, they have reduced the number of their friends and admirers. They have been limited in avenues for happiness and have had built up for them more sources of annoyances.

He is more free who least often needs restraint outside himself. He is least frequently annoyed who without thought or reminders comes least often into conflict with authority. The way to make our children free and to save them from repression is to train them early to avoid some objects and activities automatically.

* * *

The teacher of our children wants us to train them at home in habits of responsibility, so that they can be depended on to bring to school the necessary supplies when directed to do so, to be ready to work when their classmates work, never causing anyone to wait for them; so they can be counted on to prepare at school or home the class assignment. Many bright children fail at school or college just because they had never learned at home the simple alphabet of responsibility.

The teachers expects us to train our children to be at school each morning on time. Think of the hindrance to school work because of tardiness. We should consider promptness in our children a moral virtue and count ourselves delinquent parents if our children frequently are late to school.

The teacher wants us parents to spend more time attending to our own business and less attempting to attend to hers, and to remember that we do not hire her nor fire her. But if she is wise she wants us to come to school and get acquainted with her and to know what our children do.

CUPID HEALS WAR WOUNDS

Out of the chaos of the World War has sprung a romance unequaled by any in the fantastic flights of fiction. Mrs. G. Duff, (above) widow of an officer in the British Air Corps, developed a friendship with Otto Von Kohenlohe only to learn that the latter, while fighting in the German Imperial Air Corps during the war, brought down her husband. After a parting the two were brought together once more with the result that they were recently married in Berlin.

A DOCTOR'S Advice for Stubborn BOWELS

"DRINK at least six glasses of water daily — preferably before meals. Eat bulkier foods, such as vegetables, fruits and coarse breads. Use a mild laxative as needed."

That is Dr. Caldwell's advice to people with stubborn bowels. He specialized on the bowels; treated thousands for constipation and its ills. The prescription he used over and over has become the world's most popular laxative! "Syrup Pepsin," as it is now called, was tested by over 47 years of practice.

Today you can get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore in America. It is always the same; made exactly according to the original prescription, from laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other valuable ingredients. Nothing in it to harm even a baby. It does not gripe, sicken or cause any discomfort. But it moves the bowels; it gets rid of all the souring waste which clogs the system and makes you headachy, gassy, bloated, weak, bilious. A doctor should know just what is best for the bowels. Syrup Pepsin is a famous doctor's choice of a safe, pleasant, effective laxative for men, women, older folks, and children.

Daylight Saving Time Affects Working Hours Of Both Women, Minors

HARRISBURG, April 22.—Dr. A. M. Northrup, secretary of the department of labor and industry, cautions employers of women and minors in communities of Pennsylvania that may adopt daylight saving time to be on their guard to avoid mistakes that would constitute illegal employment. He points out that the women's labor law and the child labor law recognize only eastern standard time in limiting daily working hours.

The bureau of inspection of the department, which is charged with the enforcement of these laws, today issued the following statement:

"As examples of probable errors by employers, women over 21 years may work in factories between 6 a. m. and 10 p. m., provided the limitation of ten hours is not exceeded. For a factory that has adopted a daylight saving schedule, it would not be permissible to have female employes start working before 7 o'clock, daylight saving time, though they could legally work as late as 11 o'clock of the same day. Girls under 21 years who may not engage in any employment after 9 p. m. are permitted to work until 10 p. m. under a daylight saving time schedule.

"Minors of their sex under 16 years are prohibited from working before 6 a. m. or after 8 p. m. standard time. Consequently, minors could not legally go to work earlier than 7 a. m. daylight saving time, although they would be permitted to work until 9 p. m. daylight saving time, provided the daily limitation of nine hours of work was not exceeded.

"Strict adherence to the correct hour for starting work is important," the statement said, "not only because failure would subject the employer to penalties provided under the woman's act and child labor act, but because compensation insurance carriers may refuse to recognize claims for injuries to women or to minors which may occur in periods of illegal employment, and the injured workers or their dependents may institute actions for damages."

Lady Mary Heath, Famous English Aviatrix Arrested And Jailed In Canada

Attended Party, Had Few Drinks, Gets Into Traffic Trouble On Way To Hotel

By JOHN J. VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WINDSOR, Ont., April 22.—Lady Mary Heath, English noblewoman and internationally known aviatrix today frankly discussed the occurrence which led to her incarceration in a Windsor police station for five hours on a charge of intoxication. She blamed her predicament on the rain.

"This was a new experience for me," the aviatrix said. "I'm 33 years old and I'd never been in jail before."

Released under $16.50 bond, the famous woman flyer intimated that she would not appear for her scheduled hearing in magistrate's court but forfeit the bond.

Lady Heath, the divorced wife of Sir James Heath, wealthy London, England, iron master, declared that she was returning from a party at a private home when her minor tiff with the law occurred.

"I went to a private house party after a speaking engagement at the Professional Women's club. I had two beers and a small whiskey at the party and everyone knows that one can't become intoxicated on that."

"Sergeant-Major Proctor (James Proctor, chief constable of the Sandwich, Ontario, police) was at the party," she continued. "He knows I wasn't drunk"

Names Found On Dope Record Are Not Made Public

Three Men Being Held By Federal Officers Following Gigantic Dope Raid

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 22.—Mid-west and Hollywood physicians' names were listed in the customers book of a drug-cutting plant, federal agents said today as they examined the records of the concern, three men were arrested when the plant was raided yesterday and about $5000 worth of drugs seized.

The customers' book contained the names of more than 100 persons, with indications the plant did a business of possibly $1,000,000 a year.

Major Joseph A. Manning, head of the narcotic unit here, said he did not note the names of any prominent Hollywood residents in the list. Authorities refused to reveal any of the names.

Opium found in the plant carried a wrapper showing an elephant. Investigators said the same wrapping was used on drugs found recently when a Greenwich Village narcotic "depot" was raided. At that time almost a $1,000,000 worth of narcotics was seized.

The three men were held in high bail for the grand jury.

HARD WINTER
(International News Service)

CARLSRUHE, Germany, April 22.—The recurrence of winter in March piled the snow on the Black Forest hills so high that the telephone wires could be touched with the hand. In the cities along the Upper Rhine, noted for their ordinarily warm climate, the inhabitants were ski-ing in the streets. It is reported from the Enztal that a famished eight-point red stag permitted itself to be haltered and led to a barn and fed. Great numbers of arctic fulmer were reported from the Isteiner Klotz.

Job cursed the day he was born, so the practice of leaving posterity a bonded debt probably isn't new.

ADOPT NAME OF PERSHING CLUB

Organization of the Pershing Club, an association of ex-service men formed for civic and political interests, was completed at a meeting held in the court house last evening.

Officers to serve for the remainder of 1931 were elected as follows:

President, Homer C. Drake.
First vice president, Chester C. Sweesy.
Second vice president, Harry M. Long.
Secretary, Charles E. Allen.
Treasurer, Fred C. Duff.

A constitution was adopted and the name of the Pershing Club was chosen as the official name of the organization.

A governing board, consisting of one man from each voting precinct in the county will be chosen by members of the organization residing in these various precincts. The governing board will in turn name a central committee of 12 members to serve as an executive committee.

Allied Vets Eligible

The Club will meet at least once a month, the time and place of the next meeting to be chosen by the officers named at last night's meeting.

The Club is starting off with a membership of around 400 men, veterans of the United States service. At the meeting last evening, it was decided to admit to membership, any man who served with the allied forces of the United States and who is a citizen.

This would include men who went into the service of other countries during the late war from this city, such as the group who left New Castle to join the Polish army, and others who served with Canada, France, Italy, or any other allied country and who have since become citizens of the United States.

While the attendance at last night's meeting was not quite as large as on the first meeting night, it was a representative gathering and those present took a deep interest in the proceedings of the evening.

HUSBAND DENIES KIDNAPING WIFE

Protesting that his wife accompanied him willingly, Harry Drill of St. Paul, Minn., has been fighting extradition from Wisconsin, where he was arrested at Madison, after his heiress bride, Helen Fisher Drill, scribbled a note, in a filling station, which enabled authorities to find her. Mrs. Drill alleges her husband kidnaped her from New York where she was attending college and, with the aid of two friends, forced her to accompany him. They were married two years ago while students at the University of Minnesota and the marriage was annulled because of parental objection. They were remarried last July, according to Mrs. Drill, when her husband threatened to shoot himself. Both are above.

Judge Jenkins Faces Charges

Youngstown Jurist Accused Of Getting Vacation Expenses From Utility Co.

TWO OTHER JUDGES ALSO FACE CHARGES

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 22.—Judge David G. Jenkins, whose opinion recently halted the proposed billion-dollar merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and Bethlehem Steel company, today was accused of accepting money from a Ohio Utility company in an affidavit filed with disbarment proceedings instituted by Ray Thomas, the county prosecutor.

Joint disbarment proceedings, charging certain irregularities in the Struthers Furnace company receivership in 1925 were filed by Thomas against Judge H. C. Lyon, Jenkins' colleague, and attorney Andrew M. Henderson, one of the legal advisers to the Mahoning county bench in the proposed utilities investigation.

New Charges Hurled

The filing of disbarment proceedings against the two jurists and attorney was the newest outbreak in the Ohio Utilities war precipitated by charges hurled against Harry Engle, former Traction Commissioner. The Engle incident has remained in the background in view of the charges and counter-charges that have been hurled against utilities, the Mahoning county bench, and the county prosecutor's office. When the judges asked Thomas to step aside in their proposed grand jury investigation of the relations between Utilities and public officials, he carried his battle to the supreme court where he was sustained.

In Thomas' affidavit, judge Jenkins was specifically charged with having received funds from the treasurer of a utility company to pay the expenses of a vacation trip for himself and wife to New Orleans in August, 1928.

Makes Good Threat

When Thomas thus made good his threat to engulf a "score of prominent men" in the snarl if the investigation was taken out of his hands, the judges announced that an unnamed attorney for the prosecutor had threatened them unless a compromise was reached with the prosecutor in the conduct of the probe. A journal entry to that effect was made.

The jurists, meanwhile, proceeded with plans for a public hearing to be held April 29, at which Thomas' competency to conduct the probe will be attacked. In accordance with a petition from the Mahoning county bench to chief justice Carrington T. Marshall of the Ohio Supreme Court, two outside judges have been called in to preside at the hearing.

Further charges leveled at Judge Jenkins in the Thomas' affidavits claimed that he received medical treatment at a hospital maintained by a Public Utility company, the cost for which was paid by the Pennsylvania-Ohio Power and Light company; that he "insisted and demanded" that he be allowed to try an Utility case in which he was interested; and that he assisted in the preparation of cases which he knew were to come before his court."

Judge Lyon Accused

Judge Lyon was charged with using his office as a pretext to avoid the payment of light bills and jointly accused with Henderson of accepting the latter's financial aid while the attorney's fees in the Furnace case were pending in Judge Lyon's court.

Judge Jenkins has been a member of the Mahoning county bench since 1922. He became nationally known because of the prominence of the merger case in which he wrote the opinion after reading thousands of pages of testimony.

Health Center Is Dedicated Today

The health of the people is the prime foundation of their enjoyment of all the other benefits that are attainable under an enlightened government and a beneficient civilization."

Bell Company To Demonstrate Making Of Talkies

Men Of City Will Be Welcomed Tonight At Trinity Episcopal Church

It is a demonstration that is seldom available to the average community except at rare intervals and the Men's club of Trinity parish has extended an invitation not only to the men of the parish and their men friends, but to the men of the community, who may be interested in learning just how talking motion pictures are made, to be present and witness the demonstration, which will show in the most intimate detail just how they are made.

The Bell company has gone to considerable expense in arranging the demonstration and more than a ton of equipment such as is used in making talking pictures will be used.

There is no charge or any expense of any kind in witnessing this wonderful scientific demonstration and hopes are entertained that a record number of men will make the most of the opportunity afforded them.

Clermont Was Beautiful Town

Ensign V. Thomsen Of Salvation Army Recalls Pleasant Times In That Place

Ensign V. Thomsen, officer in charge of the Salvation Army corps in this city, in reading yesterday of the threatened destruction of a part of Clermont, pretty little town near Kane, Pa., by forest fires raging in that district, expressed real concern, as he, while stationed at Kane prior to coming here, held many meetings in Clermont, one of the most delightful small towns he has ever been in.

He states that the town is surrounded by forests and that its possible destruction by fire as a result of the forest fires was very possible. It is located four miles off the Buffalo-Pittsburgh highway and is a small but busy, well arranged little town.

Its principal product is clay products in a large clay products plant, the chief industry of the community, and the clay products made there are among the finest obtainable any place. Destruction of the place by fire would mean a great loss to many fine friends that he made while in that district.

"I have used only one bottle of World's Tonic and it is the best thing for my catarrh I have ever found and I am only too glad to give it my endorsement.

"This catarrh has had me in its clutches for a long time and I have spent many a dollar on so-called catarrh medicines. Every morning I would get up with my nose and head all choked up with musous matter and would require fifteen or twenty minutes of hawking and spitting to clear it out. All during the day mucous would drip down my throat and I had to hawk and constantly be clearing my throat to keep this mucous from going into my stomach. I was becoming uneasy, as some of the mucous I spit up was tinged with blood and I was fearful that it might affect my lungs. I suffered also with pains in back of my head and a heavy dull feeling in the front part about twice each week. My breath was offensive and my stomach was all out of sorts most of the time. I had to take different kinds of medicine to get my bowels and kidneys to move regularly.

"I had used many kinds of medicines before, as I stated, some that you apply right in your nose and throat, but they didn't do me much good. In fact, nothing I ever tried helped me very much until I started World's Tonic. This first bottle is relieving my catarrh entirely. I want two more bottles to carry home with me as my wife and I leave tomorrow.

"I spit up very little mucous now and I'm glad to say there are no signs of blood. My head of mornings is clear as a bell and my stomach is giving me less trouble every day. World's Tonic is giving me relief and when I get entirely rid of my catarrh I will be well paid for my visit to this city, as here I found World's Tonic.

Presbytery Names Synod Delegates

Many Matters Of Business Come Before Assemblage In First Church Tuesday

The Shenango Presbytery met Tuesday in the First Presbyterian church of this city with the retiring moderator, Rev. J. A. King, of Ellwood City in charge of the morning devotionals.

Rev. C. M. Rohrbach of Volant was named as the new moderator and proceeded with the afternoon session.

Delegates were chosen to represent the presbytery at the meeting of the General Assembly, which convene in May and they were Rev. C. Z. Bell, off Ellwood City and L. M. Pitzler of Sharon, with Dr. W. E. McClure of the First church and Bert R. Thompson as alternates.

The delegates chosen for the meeting on Synod in June at Lafayette College, Easton, were Dr. C. M. Rohrbach, Volant, Dr. J. N. Strain, J. W. Mains and W. S. Fullerton.

Plans were made for the exchange of pulpits on May 17, when the ministers will speak on behalf of the centennial of the Western Foreign Missionary society, which was organized 100 years ago and is now the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian church. Throughout Western Pennsylvania and Easter Ohio a centennial fund will be raised, with the goal as $150,000; half of this will be used for work in India and Africa, and the other half will go toward the establishment of a home in Pittsburgh for returned missionaries and their families.

The presbytery went on record as being opposed to Daylight Savings time and in favor of the present Sabbath laws.

Little 5-year-old Mary Faulkner, who for five consecutive years has won bule ribbons for physical perfection, recently won a silver cup at the infants' welfare congress.

WHAT many call "indigestion" is very often nothing but excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. The best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard anti-acid with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this more pleasant way. A small bottle is sufficient to show its merit.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for more than 50 years in correcting excess acid. 25c and 50c a bottle; any drugstore. Complete directions for its many uses are enclosed with every bottle.

Detroit Gunmen Are Acquitted In Buckley Slaying

Three Alleged Killers Of Gerald Buckley Are Given Freedom By Jury

TWO REARRESTED ON MURDER CHARGES

Trial Lasted Eight Weeks—Estimate Cost To State Of Michigan Is $500,000

(International News Service)

DETROIT, April 22.—The final chapter of the notorious Gerald Buckley murder trial, which cost the state of Michigan $500,000, today had been written with the acquittal of Ted Pizzino, Angelo Livecchi and Joe Bommarito, three alleged gangsters for the slaying of the radio announcer.

Bommarito, who police describe as a former St. Louis hoodlum, was the only one of the trio to walk from the courtroom a free man. Pizzino was rearrested and charged with the murder of William Cannon and George Collins, gangsters, who were "put on the spot" at the entrance of the LaSalle hotel last July 3 20 days before the Buckley murder.

Alleges "Frame-up".

Livecchi was held for Rochester, N. Y., authorities on a robbery armed charge. He was at liberty under $20,000 bond when arrested last fall for the Buckley killing.

"The Rochester charge is a frame-up," Livecchi told International News Service. "I can easily prove my innocence."

Pizzino, New York ladies' tailor and whom police alleged is a "gentleman gunman", expressed the belief his trial for the Cannon-Collins "job" "will end the same as the Buckley case."

A wild demonstration of cheering broke loose in the courtroom when the jury announced its verdict after having been locked up for 33 hours and two minutes.

Eight Weeks Trial.

The acquittal verdict was the climax of an eight weeks court trial, during which startling allegations were bandied about. Defense attorneys charged that Buckley had engaged in "radio black-mailing," that he had been interested in a liquor gang and that he had offered to stop his radio attacks against gangland for $30,000.

Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Toy, on the other hand, spoke of an alliance between the underworld and politics. He alleged that gangland had contributed $11,000 to the campaign fund of ousted Mayor Charles Bowles.

Buckley was shot and killed as he sat in the lobby of the LaSalle hotel after announcing over the radio the defeat of Mayor Boyles in a special election.

Cost is Enormous.

After his murder, ex-Governor Fred W. Green, then chief executive of the state, flew to Detroit from the capital and took personal charge of the murder investigation. A special 23-man grand jury was formed early in August and it has been in session since.

It returned indictments against Pizzino, Livecchi and Bommarito for the murder. The grand jury probe and the subsequent trial cost the state $500,000, according to an estimate by Judge Edward J. Jeffries, who presided at Michigan's most sensational trial.

May Day Health Week Program Commended

"President Hoover's recent White House Conference on Child Health emphasized as never before the importance to the nation of well-being among the young people. The investigations and surveys that were made during the course of a year prior to the final reports indicated in many ways that both public and personal concern must be increased if the average American youngster is to receive in terms of health and healthful conditions what it justly has a right to expect. The May Day Health Week celebrations which for a number of years have been both a national and state feature, and which will this year again be widely observed throughout Pennsylvania, also eloquently stress this matter," said Doctor Theodore B. Appel state Secretary of Health, today.

"One of the surprising features connected with activities of this character is in the discovery of the number of little folks from so-called well-to-do families who are definitely in an undernourished condition. These little people, with too many pennies in their pockets or being the victims of unwise maternal or paternal affection, follow the line of least resistance by ruining the appetite for body-building foods through an over-indulgence in sodas, sweets and cakes. That this evil is exceedingly widespread has been demonstrated time and time again.

"It follows that if the child belongs to other than the under-privileged class, it does not necessarily mean that the May Day observance should be disregarded. As a matter of fact, the child of the higher type home is just as likely to be in need of corrective advice as is any other one.

"May Day Health Week in this Commonwealth, thanks to the cooperation given to the State Health Department and allied agencies by the Federated Women's Clubs and Parent-Teacher Associations has always been an outstanding event. But the point is that to make it worthwhile personally, parents must see that their young progeny become active particularly in it. Direct physical and health advantages can not otherwise be obtained.

"All little people in this great state have a right to start life with the physical handicaps removed. In many instances the establishment of proper living and diet habits will be all that is required. But whatever the cause of the difficulty, May Day health Weeks extends to everyone the opportunity of checking up on the children's health, and of removing the causes which lead to devitalization and ill health.

"Pennsylvania children will be benefited by the May Day Health Week celebration in direct proportion to the interest displayed by those controlling their destinies. That much, and no more. For the sake of the kiddies and the nation's future citizens no parent can afford to pass up the state's annual effort in behalf of the little people. Celebrate."

Congregational Church Players Share Program

Will Give One Act Play In Religious Tourney Thursday Evening

The third one act play to be given on the final program of the religious drama tournament in the senior high school auditorium on Thursday evening, April 23, at 8:15 p. m. will be presented by the First Congregational church. The play, entitled "The Valiant" written by Holworthy Hall and Robert Middlemass, is under the direction of Griff Thomas.

The action of this play takes place in the Warden's office in the State's Prison at Wethersfield, Connecticut. The time is about half past eleven on a rainy night. The play is based upon the story of one, Jas. Dyke, who is sentenced to die in the electric chair on the night of the action of the play. Dyke will not reveal who he really is. However, he permits a girl who thinks him to be her brother to interview him. It is during this interview and just after it that our hearts are made to leap as this courageous man forgets himself and his emotions in order to save his sister and mother the grief that comes from shame.

This is an exceedingly powerful drama. In the religious drama tournament, held two years ago in Chicago, it was this play that received the award for the best presentation during that tournament.

The cast of characters in this play are as follows:

Warden Holt—W. P. Williams
Father Daly, the prison chaplain—Rev. Rees T. Williams
James Dyke, the prisoner—Griff Thomas.
Josephine Paris—Louise Davis
Dan, a jailer—James G. Davis
Wilson, an attendant—Daniel Hughes, Jr.

Never argue with a traffic cop—it's a lot better t' be bawled out than bailed out.

Bo'Broadway
by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, April 22—"What's the matter with that man over there," asked the Hotel Reporter, indicating a gloomy individual ensconsed in a deep leather chair in the lounge of the Prince George, looking as if he's lost his last friend.

"I'll tell you about him," said Jimmy Gould, assistant manager. "He's made a lot of money running a matrimonial agency. A few months ago he, himself, got married and now he's repenting for all the harm he believes he was doing."

* * *

ACES AND DEUCES

V. V. McNitt, the publisher tells of a round of poker that resolved itself into two men betting furiously. On the showdown, the loser held three aces. The other man had four deuces—sometimes known as "Gran'pa's Pets."

Mr. McNitt moralizes, pointing out that a two-spot by itself doesn't amount to much. It resembles ordinary ability for an ordinary task. It doesn't get a man far. But when to the ordinary task other ordinary qualities are brought, not usually found in association extraordinary results are achieved.

"All of us," says a commentator, "know the three-ace men who are beaten by the four-deuce men."

Yeah—but how often?

I'd rather be a three-ace man in the long run. What you win on a four-deuce hand usually doesn't cover the money you've spent on the ante, waiting for that fourth deuce. And, nine times out of ten, the four deuce man is one of the Cautious Boys at whose first sign of strength everyone just naturally drops out of the pot.

You don't need four deuces or even three aces. Guts and judgment go as far in poker as they do in any worth while endeavor.

Put V. V. McNitt, with a pair of kings up against most men with three aces—and V. V. would rake in the pot.

THOSE MODEL DEBS

The debutante model, once hailed as a glorious innovation in "smart" department store functioning, has flivvered.

The average Park Ave. deb working in a Fifth Ave. shop as a model possesses a figure slim and trim as the late afternoon shadow of a closely rolled umbrella.

She slips into an expensive frock and hips across the heavily carpeted dimly-lighted, alluringly-tinted show room hypnotizing the stout and puffy prospective purchaser into the belief that she will appear as does the slim debutante when she shoe-horns into that same dress.

* * *

FORCE OF HABIT

A professional model looks upon a $500 import as something sacred. She can wiggle her way in or out without straining a seam and would consider a spot the unpardonable sin.

The deb who has a closetful of Paris gowns at home and a maid who understands dry cleaning is careless from habit. The gowns she has worn for display in the shop return to sorrowful heads of stock with streaks of lip-stick on the zilets, jagged tears and a general air of having been through several hours of the Beaux Arts Ball.

* * *

SIC TRANSIT

The Library steps, one of the few traditional places in town, has been barred to its habitues—young man and women who dabble in oils and water colors and who scribble.

During the warm afternoon of Spring and Summer they were wont to foregather in the sheltering shade of the magnificent portico of The Library to discuss life and love and the wonderful novel that was to be turned out—the great picture that was to be painted—the glorious statue that was to be carved—the exquisite poem that was to be fashioned—Some Day.

One might see the same groups there, week after week, morning and afternoon, at the same hour.

There were never particularly well dressed, that earnest-eyed crew, in fact, they were a bit shabby, when compared with the men and women in the brave procession on The Avenue.

But they were happy. The background and the environment had just the proper classical suggestion. The building itself was an inspiration—a link with all that was worth while in the literature of the world—"all the glories" of mankind.

Now the edict of banishment has gone forth. The Library steps have been cleared—and another chip has gone from the city's rapidly dwindling Individuality.

* * *

Advertising men agree that any "message" to the public should be dominated by the principle of "Tell the story and stop talking."

If we could all do that—what a wonderful world this would be!

Harmony Line Move Awaited

Speculation On Abandonment Of Line From New Castle To Evans City

BUTLER, Pa., April 22.—Attorney John H. Wilson, city solicitor of Butler and attorney for Zelienople and other boroughs of Butler county, expressed the opinion yesterday that the next move of Martin C. Scharff, receiver of the Harmony line, would be a plea to the Federal court to abandon the section of the system between Evans City and New Castle.

The Short Line, owned by the same county, will be abandoned at midnight today between Butler and Etna, where it connects with the lines of the Pittsburg Railways Company. The distance between Evans City and New Castle, on the Harmony system, is 26 miles. A spur leads into Ellwood City, where connection is made with the Beaver Valley branch. Passenger service on this section was abandoned a few weeks ago.

Many persons in Butler who have followed the development of the motor traffic in this district believed that it is only a matter of a year or so until the Harmony Line between Butler and Pittsburgh will be abandoned, as has been the case with the Short Line, which operates by way of Mars and Valencia.

Ballots Are Ready For Special Vote

Wayne Township To Decide $45,000 Bond Issue For Schools Next Tuesday

Ballots have been printed for a special election to be held in Wayne township on next Tuesday at which electors will vote on the proposition of a $45,000 bond issue for the erection of a consolidated and Junior high school. Should the bond issue pass, it is proposed to erect a 12 room modern building.

Several meeting of Wayne township citizens have been held at which the matter has been discussed. It is agreed by all that a consolidated school would be much better than the present system, but there is some difference of opinion as to whether or not the township is in a position to undertake the expense. Should the bond issue pass it is likely that immediate steps will be taken toward the erection of the building in order that it may be ready for the opening of school next fall.

NEW CASTLE READY FOR ERIE ACADEMY

Second Annual Night Spring Game Friday At Taggart Field Starts At 8:00

Array Of New Players To Be Seen In Action On New Castle Eleven

When New Castle high battles Erie Academy in the second annual night spring football game at Taggart field under glaring lights on Friday night, fans will see an array of new players wearing the colors of the local institution. Both schoolboy elevens are coming in fine fashion according to both coaches. The contest will commence at 8:00 o'clock.

The Lake Region team will take the field with a big schoolboy eleven. Erie averages about close to 170 pounds. The line average a little better than 170 pounds. Eight lettermen from the 1930 team which made one of the best records in the history of the school will be seen in action. The following six are regulars from last season, Dan Snell, Dave Snell, Mazza, Watson, Schnieder and Spath.

Defeated Once

Only one defeat spoiled the record compiled by the Erie gridders last season. Erie East turned the tables over Academy for the championship of the city by a 6-0 score. It was the first time in 10 years that Academy lost the city laurels. One of the chief victories chalked up by Academy was one over Chaney high of Youngstown who defeated the local high team in the first night spring game last year.

Erie has been preparing for this game for the past month and according to dope will present a strong eleven against the Castlelites.

A big delegation from the Lake Region will follow the team to watch the unusual game which will be played in the spring when the boys should be playing baseball and other summer sports.

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh is sending his cohorts through final workouts in preparatioin for the tilt. Concerning the chances New Castle has of defeating Erie Academy, Coach Bridenbaugh is silent. The New Castle line is a heavy one with experienced men. The Erie line is also composed of a number of experienced men. A battle between the two lines will be seen.

The New Castle backfield is as green as a cucumber. Joe Wrona who has been making a good showing will be seen at fullback. The blonde weighs but 170 but boy how he hits that line. Nick Uram will be the signal barker on Friday. Hib Reynolds, McIver, Rambo and Burns are fighting it out for the halfback berths. Who will get the call is not known as yet.

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner announced today that workmen are busily engaged installing six more lights to the system. The lights will add 18,000 more watts of light to the playing field. This will be particularly advantageous in the end zones and the goal lines.

Tickets for the game are being sold at the Sporting Goods Store on East Washington street. Reserved seats sell for 50 cents.

Karl Pojello and Joe Bonneck, heavyweight wrestlers will be the headliners Monday night at Castle bowl when the first wrestling show is staged. Commissioner Harvey Boyle of the state athletic commission having granted sanction for the promotion of mat bouts here last night.

As soon as the official sanction came through, A. J. Bertolini was instructed by Ed. Fritz to arrange his first card and within a few hours the Philadelphian who expects to reside here, had matched the Lithuanian with Bonneck. Bertolini reported that they will furnish the fans with plenty of action.

In addition to the main bout which will be to a finish, Bertolini scheduled Attilio Marcione to take on Bill Wilcox in a 45 minute limit match and is now working on two other bouts with 30 minute limits. All of the wrestlers are professionals, known well in the larger cities and have plenty of ability, he says.

Dudley's Rise Largely Due To His Confidence

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer

NUMBER SEVEN

The time element and experience, especially a few winter wins, is making Ed Dudley a dangerous contender for national golfing titles.

It only takes several matches, with a few breaks, to make a great golfer, providing he has the form and confidence to carry him through a match.

A golfer, in competition, may be listed as a second rater, when the final scores are checked up, but give him a few breaks and one good win and he is made.

Ed Dudley's winning of the Los Angeles Open puts his golfing ability in the confidence class. For future matches, he is aware of his past ability and is constantly pushing them out for a repeat.

Dudley's game is sound and smooth. It takes such a game to win in the money class, and with your mental game at ease there is nothing left to do but score.

Dudley has played only three or four games this winter coupled with the fact that he has been one of the big money winners of the season.

This summer should see him scoring among the first ten where the national and professional and other money events are scheduled.

The money game will tell you if the player has the stuff or not.

Ball Yard Banter

By Central Press

While headlines cry of the accomplishments of sensational young rookies take a look at a veteran who is again making good with a bang. The fellow is Herb Pennock, Yankee mound veteran.

* * *

Herb celebrated his 39th birthday by making his 1931 bow and beating the Boston Red Sox 2 to 1.

* * *

This, remember, is Herbie's 19th season as a pro pitcher. And he's tossed 518 games since he first broke in with the Philadelphia Athletics, back in 1912. After more than half a hundred games Pennock's arm appears to be as strong and crafty as it was 10 years ago.

* * *

Pennock has been with the Yankees since early 1923 and he has been a great factor in their successes from that year to 1929.

* * *

Herbie was a real iron man for the first 16 years of his career. Neuritis finally slowed him in 1928. He tried a comeback in 1929, but his showing was not so hot. Last year he did much better, and this season feels that he will turn in another truly Pennock year.

* * *

Pennock is one of the smarest pitchers in the big time. His brain work in his first game this season featured his showing as much as the steadiness of his arm.

Pittsburgh Fans Eager For First Battle Of Year

Pittsburgh Pirates And Chicago Cubs May Play Today At Forbes Field

WEATHER IS NOT SO VERY GOOD

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 22.—Today is the day in Pittsburgh sportdom. For today the Pittsburgh Pirates, immaculate in their new uniforms, are going to pull out the cork and officially unbottle the baseball season for Pittsburgh fans.

The first tiff of the season is with Chicago, and the single, great thought of every Corsair, from manager to batboy, and pitcher to catcher, is to avenge the defeats suffered in the season's openers in the Windy city.

Two Pirate pitchers, Ervin Brame and Steve Swetonic, are still out of the picture with illness and injury. Manager Jewel Ens gave his proteges a stiff workout at the Forbes field ball park yesterday. There was plenty of hitting practice and lots of work on catching grounded balls, good muscle loosener after the train ride home.

Preceding the game this afternoon "taps" will be sounded for Sam Dreyfus, son of Barney Dreyfus, the Pirate owner, who died of pneumonia recently.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Local baseball fans will motor to Pittsburgh today to see the opening game at Forbes field where the Pirates play the Chicago Cubs.

Charles Berry, Red Sox catcher led the Big Show yesterday with an average of 550. He has had six runs and 11 hits in 20 times at bat this season.

Fletcher Rees, star athlete of the University of Texas, was found yesterday with a bullet in his head. He is in a critical condition at San Antonio.

Charles Guillium, who has been playing professional basketball, is home. He reports having had a good season.

With everything set for the first wrestling show here fans have now turned their discussion to the catch-as-catch-can grapplers.

During the first two days of this week there has been a decrease in the number of trout fishermen along the streams of Lawrence county.

King Levinsky of Chicago will arrive at Pittsburgh Thursday for tapering off. Te is to box Emmett Rocco, Monday night.

Henry Goldberg, fermer judge of boxing, now the vice president of the Rieck company, Pittsburgh, circulated among sport fans here last night.

Among the advance squad that hurried to Pittsburgh for the game today was Tommy Blake.

Fifteen Communities Bid For Schmeling To Set Up Training Site

Schmeling's Manager Leaves For Cleveland To Select Training Camp

Stadium Well Liked By All Parties Interested In Championship Go

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 22.—Final preparations to whip Max Schmeling into shape for his title bout with Willie Stribling in Cleveland on July 3 will get under way tomorrow when Joe Jacobs, the champion's manager, will leave for Cleveland to select a site for the German's training camp.

Fifteen different communities are bidding for the privilege of acting as Schmeling's host during his training period, Jacobs revealed today. They are located in Western Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Michigan and Ohio.

Max, who is now trying to get within striking distance of par on the links at French Lick, will begin intensive training after taking in the Kentucky Derby on May 16. Meanwhile, however, he will keep in shape by engaging in five exhibitions in Canada and Michigan, starting on May 1.

Stadium Well Liked

Both Jacobs and Billy McCarney, his partner, are enthusiastic over selection of the new stadium at Cleveland as the scene of the title battle. According to Professor McCarney, who makes it his business to keep his finger on the trend of the cauliflower industry all the way from Boston to San Francisco, the entire middle west has worked itself into a lather over the coming scrap.

"Fans throughout Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, other neighboring states and even in Toronto are crazy about the fight," eluciated the professor in his office last evening.

"All the railroads are offering lower rates to fans who want to see the bout, and the Great Lakes boats running from Chicago, Detroit and Buffalo also are giving reduced fares. Fans coming to Cleveland by the water route can sleep right on the boat—the arena is almost at the lake front."

Is Great Boom

Pointing out that the second Dempsey-Tunney fight brought $15,000,000 worth of business to Chicago, McCarney declared that the July bout would be a great boom to Cleveland.

"I wouldn't be surprised if the event marks the beginning of the end of the business depression," remarked the professor unblushingly. "The railroads and the lake passenger boats will do a big business, as will the hotels and restaurants in Cleveland. Getting all that money into circulation ought to put business on its feet in that section.

"The bout itself should draw close to a million dollars."

At this juncture the cuckoo clock in the office punctuated the professor's remarks with ten distinct "cuckoos."

Money Is Scare

"Figuring on a million", continued McCarney—

"Pardon me, Billy," interrupted Jacobs, "have you got five dollars on you?"

The professor, a bit embarrassed, discovered he hadn't. He and Meester Yockups looked searchingly at their assistant, Maurice Cain, who looked at the writer, who by that time was well out the door.

Give the pharmacists credit for one thing. They don't call soda jerkers "jerkticians."

KNUTE ROCKNE'S BEST STORIES

Written for Central Press.

Big headedness, an affliction which some players seem unable to avoid when they feature in newspaper headlines, was one football ailment which Knute Rockne could, and often did, cure.

His biting tongue, his clever sarcasm was a great antidote for swelled craniumitis. It took a thick skull to absorb one of Rock's pointed darts and not take effect. The boys generally cooled off and got down to business when Rock let them know he didn't consider them as such hot specimens.

A good example of Rock's method of handling a superiority complex is this one:

There was a Notre Dame player who was really a star. This boy was good and he knew it. He played a bang-up game and, of course, the newspapers gave him a lot of big lines. He ate it up.

Well, along came a game and a tough opponent. The star didn't do so good. It looked as though the opposition had his number. At halftime he complained to Rock.

"Don't you know what's the matter?" Rock asked him. "Those fellows don't know who you are. They dont' realize you are the great Irish star. Next time bring along your clippings to show them who you are."

Scarazzos Open Season Saturday

North Highland To Oppose Scarazzos At Centennial Field On Saturday Afternoon

Sounds of bats hitting balls, players throwing balls to and fro and the crowd cheering for their favorite team will be typical at Centennial field on Saturday afternoon when the Scarazzo team of the South Side opens the sandlot season by meeting North Highland at 2:30 o'clock.

Manager Black of the Scarazzos is undecided as to which pitcher to use in the opening tilt. He has on hand, Mike Turco, Tony Panella, Johnny Shields, and Benny Marino. Charles Scaglione or Amos Augustine will catch. A new player on the Scarazzo roster is Gerald Earl an outfielder who placed his John Henry on a contract recently.

Due to the fact that the Universals have joined the Lawrence County league, Clem General, Bub Jones and Wylie Shiek will see action with that team. These three players belong to the Universals. Manager Fred Marcella is lining up some out of town opposition for the Scarazzo team.

K. O. Christner To Meet Wine

Knockout Christner and Frankie Wine, heavyweights of Akron, will battle over the 10-round route tonight at Akron. Both predict a knockout. Christner has been fighting regularly. Wine and Christner are well known to fans hereabouts, both having fought Emmett Rocco.

East Brook Trims Harlansburg 8-3

East Brook High Defeats Harlansburg In County League Game—S. Shuller Features

East Brook high downed Harlansburg, 8 to 3, in a County League tilt at East Brook on Tuesday afternoon. S. Shuller, on the hill for the winners, allowed but three hits and fanned 12 men. Cunningham hurled fine ball for Harlansburg, allowing but six hits and fanning nine men, but was given poor support. East Brook rallied in the fifth inning to put over four runs. P. Shuller hit a home run. S. Shuller, Kennedy and Cunningham had two-base hits.

Gypsy Leader To Be Buried Today

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 22.—Scores of gypsies from the tri-state sector trooped into Uniontown today to pay tribute and final honors to Andrew Gabor, local gypsy leader, whose funeral was to be held today.

A large funeral cortege was expected to pass along the main street to escort the leader to his resting place.

He was killed in an automobile wreck when, after the collision, the pointed end of his bass viol entered his stomach.

Athletics Are Slow Starting

Connie Mack's Pitching Staff Not To Pieces, Hitters Are Away Off

BROOKLYN TAKES ANOTHER ON CHIN

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 22.—They say if a ball club has good pitchers and hitters, the winning of games will take care of itself, which may explain the fearful malady gripping the world champion Philadelphia Athletics today and for the last two weeks.

Connie Mack has a great 1931 team except that his pitchers can't pitch and his hitters would do very well as butlers employed to send cooling breezes across the brow of the King of Siam.

Pitchers Slipping

Among the hurlers of the A's, Earnshaw appears to be going, going, gone. Hank McDonald, 19-year old youth up from the Portland Club, has two arms and a couple of legs but everything else the scouts said he had still reposes out on the bonny banks of the Pacific. Mahaffey Carter and Rommel proved yesterday as the champions collapsed 12 to 1 before the New York Yankees that charity starts the first time the umpire opens his mouth and goes on down through the innings.

Rommel handed out six hits and four walks in less than seven innings and you could have had his shirt for the mere asking. Mahaffey dispensed hits and walks with the wild abandon of a Rockefeller dropping dimes. Figuratively, Carter was down to his last shoe lace and all he needed was a towel, when Mack sent him to the showers.

As for the hitters, the great Simmons goose-egged yesterday until he looked like an omlet and his batting average to date resembles an apple seller's bank account. Todt, the worthy gentleman obtained from the Red Sox, raised his own eyebrows with the rest of the world when he got his second hit of the season.

Dodgers Lose Again

But now that we are all warmed up to the subject, don't think we are going to predict the utter fall of the A's. No, indeedy! Grove and Walberg still have arms, Simmons will come back and as for the rest, they can't get any worse than they were yesterday.

Brooklyn lost again, Jumbo Jim Elliott, a former Robin, dumping his old pals for Philadelphia 7 to 3.

Ed Brandt limited the Giants to five safeties and Boston won 5 to 1.

Fred Marberry, making his 1931 debut, turned back the Boston Sox with seven hits, Washington winning 12 to 3.

Cleveland took one from Detroit, 5 to 4 after Stone, Tiger outfielder, tied it up in the ninth by clouting a homer with two men on base.

Bad weather kept other teams idle.

Willie Stribling may train at Johnny Kilbane's Elyria camp for his bout with Max Schmeling, heavyweight king, July 3, at Cleveland. Max Schmeling has been invited to train at Conneaut Lake. Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, will view the lake site before giving a definite answer.

CHRYSLER
STRAIGHT EIGHTS
DUAL HIGH GEARS

Enjoy the Difference

There certainly is a difference, a vital and thrilling difference, between Chrysler cars and other cars.

For one thing, design is different—and smarter. The Chrysler Eights have an extremely low center of gravity. Low-swung lines create refreshing grace and beauty—low-swung weight gives perfect balance and greater safety.

Engineering is different—more advanced. The Chrysler Eights have the exclusive Multi-Range 4-speed transmission with Dual High gears and a quick, quiet gear shift. One high gear for flashing pick-up in traffic sprints—another high gear for the open road—both very quiet because they are internal-mesh type gears.

Performance is different—more fascinating. Only a Chrysler will give you Chrysler speed, Chrysler acceleration and Chrysler smoothness.

Chrysler performance speaks for itself. The Chrysler Imperial Eight, for instance, now holds twelve A. A. A. Contest Board stock car speed records for one to five miles.

Drive a Chrysler—any Chrysler—and learn for yourself the differences that make Chrysler cars so completely outstanding on the road, the masters of every situation.

Athletic Council Will Meet Every Month At College

Attorney Stranahan Announces New Policy For Westminster Body

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., April 22.—Stated meeting of the athletic council of Westminster College will be held once each month, Attorney James A. Stranahan, Mercer, president of the council, announces. The next meeting is scheduled for May 11.

This change in policy, inaugurated for the betterment of sports at Westminster, comes as a remedy to the situation wherein meetings were called only once or twice a year and often after it was too late to act effectively in situations out of control.

Under the new plan, the whole athletic policy of the Titans has been revised, and definite plans for all sports activities have been formulated in advance. Schedules for all teams for next year have been approved, and equipment matters have been investigated. A committee on eligibility of athletes is also at work.

The athletic set-up for next year includes John D. Lawther as director of athletics, head coach of football, and head coach of basketball; A. A. McDonald as graduate manager; Jack Hulme as director of physical education, team trainer, and swimming instructor; and R. X. Graham as coach of track and cross country.

Attractive schedules in football and basketball have been arranged, improvements have been made on the football field, and the council plans many activities throughout the summer to strengthen Westminster's growing place in district sports.

The Rise And Fall Of The House Of Bourbon

NUMBER THREE

The mistresses of Louis XV forced policies upon his government which caused France to be held in contempt.

Louis XVI, well meaning but weak, was guillotined in 1792, as France entered the revolutionary and Napoleonic periods.

A tendency to absolutism brought the reign of Charles X to a close with the revolution of 1830.

In Spain Philip V, grandson of Louis XIV of France, was sustained on the throne by the Peace of Utrecht.

Charles III, in 1759, began a vigorous policy at home and abroad to regain Spain's diminishing prestige.

Charles IV, a weak ruler, was under the control of a courtier who played into the hands of the French Napoleon.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of stories on the Rise and Fall of the Bourbons in Europe. Final article appears tomorrow.)

Written For Central Press
By FRANK McLEARN

The power of the Bourbons in France reached its height in the reign of Louis XIV. Although, as we have seen, Louis' despotic rule made France a great and powerful nation to the outside world, internally she was suffering.

Expensive campaigns of the armies in the field, defeats, were too great a load for the French to bear. Oppressive war taxes, the prodigality of the court, the luxurious lives of the nobility and clergy began to undermine the stability of the French throne, so that by the time of Louis' death, in 1715, the prestige of the nation was sadly lacking.

Louis XV, his great-grandson, succeeded Louis XIV on the throne, and under him the nation continued on its downward path. During his reign France was stripped of Canada and Louisiana and the country was held in contempt because of the capricious changes of policy forced upon the government by the whims of the king's mistresses, Madame de Pompadour and Madame du Barry.

Louis XVI succeeded his grandfather in 1774. Well-meaning but weak, he fell into the ways of his two predecessors. In time the nobility, the clergy and the commoners, or third estate, united against him, revolution breaking out in 1792. On January 21, 1793, the king, who had made an unsuccessful attempt to escape from France, was guillotined.

Through the revolutionary and Napoleonic periods most of the members of the Bourbon family fled France. They were the emigres of the period, openly plotting with coalition powers of Europe to re-establish the Bourbon dynasty. There were a few exceptions, of course. Louis Joseph Philippe, Duke of Orleans, the younger branch of the House of Bourbon, renounced his rank during the revolution, taking the name of Citizen Egalite. He died by the guillotine in 1793.

The dynasty was re-established in France in 1814 with the downfall of Napoleon, Louis XVIII, a younger brother of Louis VI, taking the throne. He fled Paris on Napoleon's return from Elba, but returned again after the great general's defeat at Waterloo.

Louis XVIII was succeeded by his brother, the Comte d'Artois, in 1824, who became king as Charles X. His tendency to absolutism and ministerial incapacity brought his reign to a close with the revolution of 1830. With Charles X the direct Bourbon line in France came to an end. Louis Philippe, Duke of Orleans, was elevated to the throne as King of the French, and continued until his abdication, in 1848. Thus ended the Bourbon rule in France.

In Spain Philip V, grandson of Louis XIV of France, was confirmed in his occupation of the throne by the Peace of Utrecht, in 1713. Although stripped of some of her possessions, she made an attempt to recover them, but failed because of the Quadrulpe Alliance of England, France, Austria and Holland. In the war of the Polish Succession, however, Don Carlos, son of Philip, wrested the two Sicilies from Austria and established the Bourbon dynasty there.

Philip was succeeded by his son Ferdinand VI, who introduced numerous reforms in the administration of state affairs. Ferdinand was succeeded by his half brother, Charles III, in 1759, and began a vigorous policy both at home and abroad to restore the Spanish prestige. He joined France in a war against England in 1779.

Charles IV, succeeding his father, was not capable of continuing the vigorous policy. He was under the control of a notorious courtier, a favorit of the queen, who played directly into the hands of Napoleon for his own profit. In 1808 Charles abdicated in favor of his son Ferdinand. The latter was compelled to renounce his claims to the crown and it was handed over to Napoleon, who gave it to his brother, Joseph.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Active Industrial Stocks Show Recovery

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 22.—Most of the active Industrials recovered in the second hour today from the severe shake-out which forced prices sharply downward at the opening of the market. The Rails and Utilities were again under pressure, principally from the big bears, the evidence of which is seen in the steady increase of the short interest in the market.

Selling of the favorites was heavy at the start of the session a 10,000-share block of Radio went through at a decline or more than a point from Tuesday's close. United Corporation faced the sale of 11,000 shares in one block and numerous 1,000-share blocks were disposed of. Before starting its rally United States Steel eased off another point, to 126½, while Westinghouse dipped under 75 for the first time this year. Over in the Railroad group, New York Central sold under 100 for the first time since 1924, when the low of the year was 99⅛. Today's low price was 99¾, down 1¼ from yesterday's close. Losses were heaviest in a few of the specialties which have been shining targets for the bears in the last two weeks.

A 10-point jump in Auburn Auto to 202 was an indication that the bulls have not yet resigned and surrendered to the bears. Good rallies were recorded half way through the second hour in American Can and other favorites. Can moved up from 115½ to 116⅝; General Electric to 44 and Bethlehem Steel at 49¼ was up a point from Tuesday's close.

Grain and Cotton sold off slightly in the early trading and call money was unchanged at 1½ per cent.

Resolution Filed Asking Pinchot To Explain His Stand

Rep. Wilson Sarig, Berks County, Wants Pinchot To Make Good His Promises

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 22.—Charging that during his campaign, Governor Pinchot promised the people of Pennsylvania certain tax reductions, and that now he "has become as silent as the Sphinx on the subject," Representative Wilson G. Sarig, Berks, Democratic floor leader of the house, today introduced a resolution asking the Governor to submit information concerning economies in government.

The resolution asks directly whether the Governor still favors a reduction in motor registration and drivers' license fees and also requests submission of the names of persons added to the state payroll since January 20; the titles of positions held by such appointees and "what services, if any, such appointees render to the people of the state."

The resolution was laid over for printing under house rules.

German Slayer Is Sentenced To Die

Peter Kuerten, "Vampire Killer" Sentenced To Death For Nine Murders

(International News Service)

DUESSELDORF, Germany, April 22.—German justice descended harshly today upon Peter Kuerten, so-called "vampire killer", found guilty of nine murders and seven attempted slayings.

He was sentenced to death nine times, one sentence being meted out for each of the slayings.

In addition he was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary for other crimes of which he was found guilty.

The multiple death sentence carried the ironic stipulation that Kuerten "be deprived of his citizenship rights for the rest of his life".

Special Train To Carry Musicians

City And County Players, Entering Oil City Meet, To Ride Pennsy

EXPECT 400 WILL BE IN DELEGATION

New Castle and Lawrence county's student musicians who will compete on Friday with the cream of the school music groups of the district, in the annual Northwestern Pennsylvania Inter-Scholastic Music contest at Oil City, will travel to Oil City and back on a chartered train of six coaches.

School authorities here today announced the completion of arrangements with Pennsylvania railroad officials whereby almost 400 pupils from the county and city schools will be transported by rail.

Traveling via its Stoneboro branch, the special, scheduled to leave Cherry street station at 7:30 a. m. will stop at the east side station here at 7:40 and a short time later at New Wilmington. No other stops for passengers will be made.

Automobiles, donated by numerous residents of the city, will be used to convey a large number of senior high school band and orchestra players, but the school will also contribute a large share of pupils to the special train party as well.

Railroad officials announced that the Oil City trip of 70 miles would be made in about one and half hours, enabling the contestants to be at the scene of the competition in reasonable time before starting. Contests open at 9 a. m. and close with the final band competition at 8:15 p. m.

Complete details for the trip are being handled to a large extent by Principal J. W. Anderson, of the East Brook high school, chairman for the Lawrence county division of the contest. H. M. B. Lehn, supervising principal of the Grove City high school, is general chairman for the meet.

Upon arriving in Oil City, each organization will report to the South Side junior high school, corner of State and Second streets, where two rooms will be assigned to each school (one for the boys and one for girls).

The delegations of the Shenango, Bessemer, Union, New Wilmington schools, as well as the local groups, will make the trip on the train.

Ohio Confessions Solve Quartet Of Station Robberies

E. & A. Division Lootings Laid To Trio Nabbed At Warren, O.

A trio of confessed robbers arrested at Warren, Ohio, last week has admitted the burglaries of four Pennsylvania railroad stations on the Erie & Ashtabula division, Captain of Police W. E. Gastinger, Pennsylvania police department, announced today.

The three young men, Frank Bowers, Warren; Charles Mendehall, Leavittsburgh, and Calvin Markle, also of Warren, were turned over to federal authorities at Cleveland for prosecution in connection with two postoffice jobs to which they have confessed.

Captain Gastinger said the men acknowledge robbing stations at Lockwood, East Orwell, Warren and Bristolville, all in Ohio. Their confession is a solution to the lootings.

Only a short time ago another group, now confined to Ohio state reformatory at Mansfield, confessed perpetrating other station jobs closer to New Castle.

The Decision

The court held for the owner of the crockery store.

The judges reasoned thus:

The law imposes a duty on the owner of real estate to make conditions safe. Of course, the standing wall was needed for the investigation, but it was still the owner's duty to see that no injury befell his neighbors.

Nation-Wide Drug Ring Is Broken

Federal Agents Descend On Manhattan Home And Confiscate Record Books

PROFITS TOTAL CLOSE TO MILLION

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 22.—A record book containing the names of Hollywood movie actors and actresses was seized Tuesday by federal agents in a raid directed against what they termed a $1,000,000 nation-wide drug ring.

The raid was led by Chief Agent Joseph Manning, who said that the record book also contained the names of a Hollywood physician, and of physicians in the south and middle-west.

The federal agents descended on a Manhattan residence, seized the record book, and placed Jacob Jacobs, alleged to be the ring leader, under arrest.

Manning said that the ring averaged profits of $1,000,000 a year, with the total much higher some years. The Manhattan residence was said to be a gambling house only, as only a small amount of heroin morphine, and opium was confiscated.

Jacobs was captured after fleeing down a fire escape. He hid in a barrel in the rear yard, but was discovered when the agents turned the barrel upside down, spilling him out.

Two other men, charged with selling dope to agents, were arrested on the street. They described themselves as Samuel Bannerman and George Smith.

The community Bible study class met Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. George Allen. Y. P. C. U. devotionals were led by Edwin Allen. The book of Acts was then studied by the class under the direction of Mrs. F. A. Montgomery. It was decided hereafter not to serve a lunch, but just one thing, at the meetings, and every three months have a dinner at the church for the members of the class. Larimer Carlisle was appointed as leader for the next meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cover May 1.

A social time followed, after which the hostess served refreshments.

Hospital Facts

Approximately ten million people enter our hospitals every year. They are cared for in one million beds. Twenty-five years ago it would have required twice as many hospital beds to care for the same number of people. The average patient today is discharged from the hospital in eleven days. Twenty-five years ago the same patient remained in the hospital twenty-two days.

Many compare the Modern Hospital to the Modern Hotel.Simtlarities are recognized but the differences are striking. The hotel is never full until the supply of cots is exhausted. The hospital is crowded when 70% of its beds are occupied, and the reason is simple:—a woman can not be placed in a men's ward; a man would hardly feel that he was where he belonged in a maternity ward; and he would hardly find it comfortable in a crib. In the Jameson Memorial Hospital, if there were exactly the right number of women and men and children and mothers and new-born babies, it would be possible to care for 165 patients. Arrangements are further complicated by the fact that among all ages and both sexes there are both charity and pay patients. 70% occupancy in your hospital is a full-house; your hotel is not yet full with 110% occupancy.
